Here are the National Endowment Fund Honor Roll Alumni

THE extended proportions of THE LOGOS are made possible by the increased interest in the National Endowment Fund on the part of alumni long since out of school. Some of them would have to go back a good way to their school days yet the bond Alpha Kappa Lambda tied in the time of college life has prompted them to full support of the national fund to endow the fraternity magazine.

Here they are—the men initiated prior to January 5, 1925 who are paid up. Their entire fee of $25 is in; membership cards and recognition crests have gone to them. It goes without saying that those who are devoting time, as well as money, appreciate the support—even the pocketbook kind, essential as it is in this day and age!

When time for your payment comes—if you are an alumnus who is handling the fund that way—pin a bill to the notice and get your installment in on time. This money business will be a thing of the past pretty soon. Let's clean up right away. These men have:

A Christmas Gift in Thought

HOW TO LIVE: that happens, in my opinion, to be the most important and the most neglected of all studies among the American people—how to live so that life shall taste somehow good each day as it passes here on earth.”—Stuart Sherman.

“What we need first is a change of heart and a chastened mood which will permit an ever increasing number of people to see things as they are, in the light of what they have been and they might be.”—James Harvey Robinson.

“It is from the selection of variations, not from the preservation of uniformities, that progress is born. We do not want to make our State a cattle-yard in which only the shepherd shall know one beast from another. Rather we may hope to bring from the souls of men and women their richest fruition. If they have intelligence we shall ask its application to our problems. If they have courage we shall ask the aid of its compelling will. We shall make the basis of our state consent to disagreement. Therein shall we ensure its deepest harmony.”—Harold J. Laski.

The Device of Unlimited Inquiry

“Finally, what hope lies anywhere save in the widest freedom to inquire and expound—always with respect to the rights and opinions of others? As my friend James Harvey Robinson once remarked, the conservative who imagines that things will never change is always wrong; the radical is nearly always wrong, too, but he does incur some slight risk of being right in his guess as to the direction of evolution. It is in silence, denial, evasion, and suppression that danger really lies, not in open and free analysis and discussion. Surely if any political lesson is taught by the marvelous history of English-speaking peoples it is this. And yet everywhere there seems to be a fear of reliance upon that ancient device so gloriously celebrated by John Milton three hundred years ago—the device of unlimited inquiry. Let us put aside resolutely that great fright, tenderly and without malice, daring to be wrong in something important rather than right in some meticulous banality, fearing no evil while the mind is free to search, imagine and conclude, inviting our countrymen to try other instruments than coercion and suppression in the effort to meet destiny with triumph, genially suspecting that no creed yet calendared in the annals of politics mirrors the doomful possibilities of infinity.”—Charles A. Beard.

Our Fear of Intelligence

“There is nothing hindering the thinking activity, more elusive than the ill-defined fear of weakening authority, particularly, moral authority. If we imply to boys and girls that we are not sure what is wrong and what is right; that right and wrong change with time and place, and encourage them to ask questions about those things, then, we feel, the sanctions of conduct are weakened. This attitude extends from morals to politics and even economics. To imply that the national constitution may be defective, the national conduct at times bad, may, we fear weaken the child's patriotism; deprive it of its national hero-worship; weaken its spirit of emulation. And in economics, to encourage the idea that our economic system might conceivably be altered is to turn our budding bolsheviks.

“So we tell it what it ought to think, which is teaching it not to think. What is true in morals, politics, economics is just so many more lists of things to learn and to remember. When that is the case, it is not astonishing that we should be stupid about such subjects as ethics, morals, social organization, government, religion, politics and economics. The authoritarian approach to their study, which we have heretofore imposed, necessarily deprives them of all natural interest. It is not sufficiently understood why this should be the case.

“What constitutes the natural interest of the young in games, stories, dramas—in sport and fiction? In every game there is an obstacle to be overcome by the initiative, resource, ingenuity of the player. Success in overcoming them—or in just struggling with them—pleases by the sense of achievement, sometimes stimulated by competitiveness. In the case of fiction and the drama the main appeal is through curiosity, uncertainty, ‘breathless expectation’ as to how the plot will turn out.

“Now the search for truth in morals, ethics, religion, politics, social organization, economics, would normally, if we would tell the truth at the start, be marked by all the elements just enumerated. Here, too, are puzzles to be solved, obstacles to be overcome, uncertainties to be faced, curiosity awaiting to be excited. Is ours the best form of government, ours the true religion? Is this conduct moral or immoral? Is that thing right or wrong? Have we discovered Truth, or has she once more escaped us like the elusive hero of the drama chased by his enemies? Could we really make a world where all would be free and happy? How should we do it?

“Here are adventures indeed—the great game. We know that the interest of it in fortunate cases can be lifelong. But all the possibility of putting behind the study of these things the same interest which is aroused by play and stories, is surrendered the moment the things become a matter of an authoritative laying down of the law. From the moment that we say authoritatively: ‘This is the truth, the solution of the puzzle; there are no uncertainties; all you have to do is to remember the law or the catechism and obey it’; from that moment there is no denouement impatiently to be awaited, no curiosity, no planning for us to do, no pioneering of the mind, no adventure. Why should you expect the adolescent mind in those circumstances to show the slightest interest, to be anything but dull and stupid about it? Of course, a mind so trained will, when adult, be more interested in Mary Pickford than in the state of Europe, in the last movie than in the destiny of mankind. The average mind is not naturally indolent—it is capable indeed of immense industry. But it loses interest in big things because in childhood it has had to pass through the sterilizing tank of ‘authoritative truth.’”—Norman Angell.

The Story of Eta Chapter

By CARLYN R. WINGER, Eta '28, Chapter President

ON the fifteenth day of October the Diversity Club of the State College of Washington realized the most cherished desire of the year when it was installed as Eta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Lambda. The local group sent in their petition last February and it was granted in September. The installation of Eta Chapter marks the change of an orphan group trying to hold up certain ideals on the campus, to a link in a chain of similar groups held together as a National Fraternity.

It was in the ritual that the deep seated feeling of awe and reverence was most prominent. It was a wonderful ceremony. Not a cog slipped, not an installing officer blundered to make the feeling change from the sublime. There was tenseness about the incoming members, a feeling that their goal was set higher than ever before and that theirs was a kinship with all other chapters of Alpha Kappa Lambda.

Fellow Christian, Chaplain, Brotherly Love, were taken by Frank Waring, Alpha, David Chase, Alpha, and Fred Miller, Beta, respectively. The other installing officers were Art Legg, Harold Child, George Moore, and Frank Bloomer of Alpha Chapter, Walt Wessman of Gamma, and Fred Moreau of Epsilon Chapter. George Moore's fine tenor voice helped to build up the feeling of grace and solemnity.

It was impracticable to receive all the members at once, and for this reason they were divided into two groups. After the receiving of the new members, Frank Bloomer, National Secretary, formally presented the charter changing the Diversity Club to Eta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Lambda. Carlyn Winger, president of the new chapter, received the charter and in a few sentences set forth the goals of Eta Chapter. The installation was followed by the pledge ceremony, which was given by Fred Moreau of Epsilon.

In the evening the banquet was held, and it was a great occasion for us. At various intervals during the dinner we were entertained by Harold Child and the rest of the California bunch in the form of yells and songs, much to the embarrassment of Fred Miller, the sole Stanford representative present. The whole group sang several songs of all of the chapter colleges, under the direction of Frank McFarland. The joke of the evening came when we sang an Illinois song that Walt Wessman didn't recognize. I guess the laugh was on us. Also at the time the local bunch sang “All Hail Diversity” for the last time, making the program very impressive.

After the dinner the toastmaster read telegrams and letters of greeting from various chapters of Alpha Kappa Lambda and also from many of the fraternities and sororities on the W. S. C. campus. He also called attention to a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums that were presented by the Kappa Alpha Thetas, commenting on the fact that Walt Wessman's wife was a Theta.

The different members of the installation committee were then introduced and asked to give their names, nicknames, and occupation. Prof. Fermen L. Pickett, head of the department of botany, and associate member of the group gave a short talk, in which he pointed out the enviable record the Diversity Club had made, and the dangers that the new step involved, thus making it necessary to double our efforts.

After Prof. Pickett, Paul Hungerford, president of the Diversity Club last year, gave an account of the history of the local organization. In the spring of 1924 a group of four students at the State College of Washington banded together in order to carry on more efficiently their work as student secretaries in the churches of Pullman. Soon another man was added to the group, and then another, and another, until by the next fall there were eleven men. These eleven fellows felt that in order to live up to their ideals they would be better off if they organized themselves into a permanent group. They chose for their three aims, Christian living, high scholarship, and economy, and they called themselves the Diversity Club, as they said they were united in ideals, but diversified in activities.

Into this group, Prof. Pickett, Ph. D., Indiana University, was taken as faculty member and adviser of the boys. He helped organize, and draw up the constitution, and his influence through the years of the existence of the Diversity Club has been invaluable. In scholarship the Diversity Club has maintained its place among the leaders of the fraternities on the campus. A Scholarship Chairman checks up on the grades of the men each week, requires a report on the number of hours studied, and brings pressure to bear upon delinquents in this respect. The scholarship standing among the fraternities since the foundation of the Diversity Club is as follows: First semester, 1924-25 fourth; second semester, 1924-25, second; first semester, 1925-26, third; second semester, 1925-26, fifth; first semester, 1926-27, second, and second semester, 1926-27, third.

The charter members of the Diversity Club are: Waltham L. Kincheloe '25 of Walla Walla, La Verne A. Barnes '25 of Spokane, Frank H. Cass '27 of Connell, Horace Keeney '26 of Palouse, Rudolph Anderson '27 of Tacoma, Paul Hungerford '27 of Burlington, Arthur Moulton '28 of Walla Walla, Sidney R. Roys '27 of Monitor, John W. May '27 of Okanogan, Lloyd Thomas '28 of Bellingham, Roy H. Betts '28 of Acme and Prof. Fermen L. Pickett, associate member of Pullman.

Paul closed with the statement that the Diversity Club had far surpassed any of the visions of the original founders. Walt Wessman was next to talk. He stated that this was his second marriage within the past two weeks, for, he said this uniting of Eta to the National Alpha Kappa Lambda could not be counted as anything but a marriage.

The last speaker was National Secretary Frank F. Bloomer. Secretary Bloomer stressed the achievements of Alpha Kappa Lambda, and also some of the dangers which had to be avoided. He also pointed out the fact that both Alpha Kappa Lambda and the Diversity Club were founded on practically the same principals.

The Pledges of Eta Chapter—

Sixteen pledges of the Diversity Club took the pledge oath of Alpha Kappa Lambda at the time of the installation. Nine of the boys were pledged last spring, while the other seven were captured this fall.

The spring pledges include Forrest R. (Forry) Anderson, a plant pathology major from Sumner; Andy Matthieson, another plant pathologist who hails from Seattle; Douglas Blake is an engineer from Snohomish; Mariner W. Bryant, another engineer, is a native of Buckley; John Groenig, a music major from Yakima, and Miles Hatch, a chemist from Alderton. The Pease brothers, Wallace and Truman, are the only local products, both boys being registered from Pullman. Truman is a forestry major, while Wally specializes in physical education. Allen Beach is the only one that can't claim a major. He comes from Palo Alto, Calif.

The fall pledges are: G. Allison (Al) Ridpath, a business administrator from Seattle; Loyd Anderson, a music major from Mount Vernon, who plays in the College Pep Band, and is quite a musician; George Brown, an engineer and a native of Zillah; Irvin Lisle, who is trying to become a teacher, hails from Manson; George Setters is an English major from Lamont; Carl Claire is a veterinarian and hails all the way from Burbank, Calif., and Roy Hansberry is a zoologist from Puyallup.

Eta Chapter is exceedingly happy over the pledging of these boys, as they are all fellows of fine character, and promise to be leaders. We expect great things from them before they graduate.

Charter Members—

Roy Oliver, business administration, House Manager, Pomeroy.

Joseph Temby, education, Treasurer, Selah.

Anton Harms, animal husbandry, Pullman.

Carlyn Winger, music and fine arts, President of House, Chairman A. S. C. W., Public Speaking Committee, Debate, Dramatics, Chairman of Prayer Meeting Committee for C. E., Grandview.

Harold Davis, physical education, Frosh track, Y. M. C. A. cabinet, Secretary of Wesley League, House Secretary, Sumner.

Elbert Oliver, economics, President of Y. M. C. A., Pomeroy.

Frank McFarland, economics, Glee Club Chairman of Music Committee of C. E., Aberdeen.

Sidney Roys, out of school this semester, Monitor.

Robert Urie, out of school this semester, Enumclaw.

Cecil Zylstra, history, Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, Intramural Debate, House Chaplain, Yakima.

Oren Palmer, history, Executive Committee of Y. P. M. at Federated Church, Spokane.

Roy Betts, general, Acme.

Religious Activities—

Eta, the newly installed chapter of Alpha Kappa Lambda, has always been very active in the religious life of the campus, having been founded with that as one of its primary aims. This year is no exception to the years gone by. Brother Bert Oliver succeeded Brother Paul Hungerford as president of the college Y. M. C. A. Pledge Beach and Brothers Davis and Zylstra are members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet.

Pledge Blake is the president of the Epworth League of the local Methodist Church. Brothers McFarland and Winger are members of the C. E. executive committee of the United Presbyterian Church. Pledge Bryant is the president of the Young Men's Bible Class at the same church. Brother Palmer and Pledge Beach are members of the Young Peoples Executive Committee of the Federated Church.

On October 22 the local chapter made a deputation trip to a nearby town and held a morning church service there. Thirteen men traveled over 100 miles to make the trip. A number of similar trips are being planned. The men attend church regularly, and take an active part in the young people's work. We feel that the religious life at Eta Chapter is such as to keep the ideals of Alpha Kappa Lambda constantly before the campus.

Social Activities—

So far this year Eta Chapter cannot brag about her social activities primarily because we have been so busy getting ready for our installation. Now that this event is over, we are going with a bang. To start off, the pledges gave a party in honor of the members on the fourth of November. The following week-end was homecoming, and we were busy entertaining our alumni in Pullman to see the annual football clash with the University of Idaho.

Alumni and members in honoraries are:

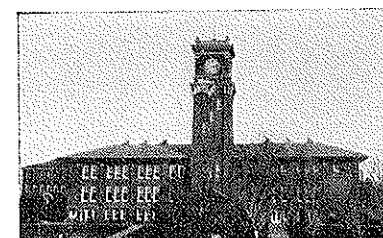

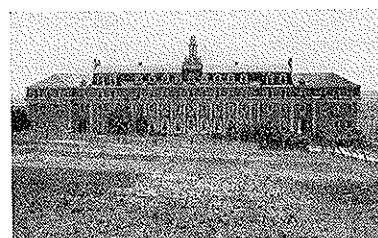

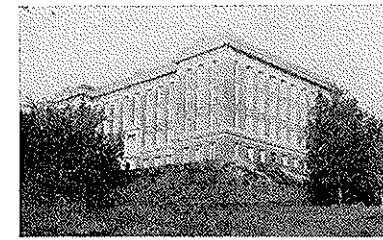

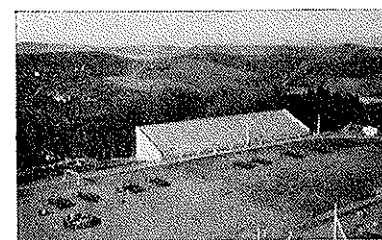

John W. May, Tau Beta Pi, and Sigma Tau; Eugene Harms, Alpha Zeta, Phi Kappa Phi, and Mu Beta Beta; Rudolph Anderson, Phi Kappa Phi, and Delta Sigma Psi; Paul Hungerford, Delta Sigma Psi; Horace Keeney, American College Quill Club, and Phi Delta Kappa; Edward Phinney, Delta Sigma Rho; Allen Harvey, Alpha Zeta, and Phi Kappa Phi; Anton Harms, Alpha Zeta, and Mu Beta Beta, and Carlyn R. Winger, Delta Sigma Rho.

State College of Washington History—

The State College of Washington was founded in 1892 as the school of Agriculture and Science of the State of Washington. It was organized to promote the mechanical and liberal education of the industrial classes. The growth of the college has been comparatively rapid. In 1910 it had nearly a thousand students, and by 1920 the number had practically

What Those Who Know Eta Boys Say

AMONG the endorsements of the Diversity Club forwarded to the National Secretary of Alpha Kappa Lambda were the following:

President E. O. Holland of the State College of Washington: "The Diversity Club has not been below fifth place in scholarship among the 24 national and local fraternities connected with this institution. Furthermore, this group has had no member, during the past two and one-half years, who has been involved in a serious offense which has involved himself and his group with the college authorities. I have known practically all the members of the Diversity Club from the time it was organized and I do not hesitate to say that this group, in my opinion, is worthy of a charter in any of the leading national fraternities in the United States."

F. C. Forrest, president, First National Bank of Pullman: "With a group whose ideals are as good as these boys and their scholarship ranking as it does, it is a distinct pleasure to recommend them to you for a national charter."

Norman McKay, director, Wesley Foundation of Washington State College: "I know intimately the man who conceived the idea of the Diversity Club. He is the embodiment of integrity. He built into the constitution of the club his own high ideals. It has been mine to know personally many of the members of the club since it has formally organized. These men have been and are now true to the objects and purposes embodied in the original group."

George Cole, secretary, Y. M. C. A., State College of Washington: "I have known the group on the campus of the State College of Washington, known as the Diversity Club, for two years. Some of the men have been known to me before they came to college. They are a high grade, steady group of men who are endeavoring to live as Christians amid the complexities of a modern campus. They are doing a good job of it, too. Individually these men are fine, scholastically high, socially serviceable, and collectively influential to a marked degree. They would grace any national fraternity they seek to enter."

Carl Morrow, Dean of Men, State College of Washington: "The State College of Washington is very proud of the success of the Diversity Club. The group was organized and has functioned on a Christian basis. The men are conservative thinkers and have high ideals. The scholarship rating is excellent, being well above the average of the campus organizations of men. The men enjoy very favorable social standing. The home life is successful. Members are prominent in extra-curricular activities. The Diversity Club is loyal to the interests of the institution."

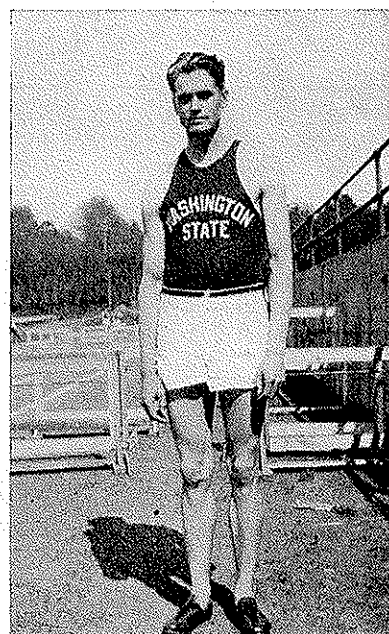

A. A. Cleveland, Dean of the School of Education, State College of Washington: "I was very well acquainted with a number of the boys who started the Diversity Club and they were, without exception, men of high character, of very good scholarship and pleasing personality. They are, in my judgment, one of the strongest groups on the campus."

Samples of Eta

The grinning young man on the left is Carlyn R. Winger, who is directing Eta Chapter in its first year as a part of Alpha Kappa Lambda. He is a senior in the fine arts school and comes from Grandview, Wash. Besides his prominent part in campus dramatics and debating, he is a busy church worker.

Sidney Roys, "our star track man," is also one of the charter members. His home is in Monitor, Wash. Just what event he does for Washington State wasn't indicated to the editor, but from the scenery it may be guessed that he knows what hurdles are for.

The Birth of Eta

By GEORGE S. DARBY, JR., Epsilon '24

IN the fall of 1925, National Vice-president Brother Glenn McIntyre of Beta Chapter, and I were brought together by chance in the same board house on Cummington Road in Cleveland. Throughout our first meal together we were mutually unaware of our fraternal connection; but the conversation afterward on the front porch turned to schools and fraternities, so we were not long strangers to each other. Then, aided by Frank Bloomer in our search for brothers, we were again surprised when we learned that there were three of us living in the same block, the third member being Floyd Poin-dexter of Michigan. And now that Eta Chapter has been duly installed, we can add another name—that of Brother La Verne Barnes, who roomed and ate where I did.

The three of us who were eating at the same table were often together, for we found ourselves united by that community of interests which is more than mere acquaintance-ship. We were a fraternity in spirit. It was through Brother Barnes, then, that we learned of the existence of Diversity Club at Pullman, Washington; and we all began to hope that some day our respective groups might be one in name, as well as in purpose and ideals.

The task of preparing the way naturally fell upon Brother Barnes, who returned the following year to Pullman. The outcome of his efforts is now known to all of you. During the past winter, a petition was received from Diversity Club and accepted unanimously. On the fifteenth of October, Eta Chapter was received officially into our Fraternity.

For the little group who were once on Cummington Road, this recent union brings no new personal emotions; for us it

An Eta Response

By LAVERNE A. BARNES, Eta '25

ON October 15, 1927 at the State College of Washington, the Diversity Club became Eta chapter of Alpha Kappa Lambda. The ceremonies were very impressive and the installing team is to be congratulated for the manner in which the services were carried out. The group at Eta is thankful for the opportunity of affiliation with Alpha Kappa Lambda with its high ideals of Christian character, scholarship and leadership.

In the November 1926 issue of THE LOGOS there is an editorial entitled "Just Another Fraternity." One truth that is emphasized in the article is that Alpha Kappa Lambda is living up to its ideals. We should all be grateful for belonging to such a group. The statement was made that many college social fraternities can point to a Christian basis for its organization, but that no college fraternity has lived up to this ideal.

In many cases the accusation is not without justification, for there are few men's social groups that are willing to admit that their fraternities have such an ideal. It is a particular challenge to Eta chapter to prove that fraternity ideals can mean so much to its members that they will live up to them in spite of scoffing and ridicule. Eta chapter has already been subjected to such criticism, both before and since the installation, more because of the Christian ideals than of the scholastic and social standards of the group.

To overcome the ridicule of the other fraternities on the campus; then, is probably one of the greatest tasks of Eta chapter. When that has become a fact, Eta will have made a great contribution to Alpha Kappa Lambda. The gradual

"A Bunch Like Original Los Amigos Club"

By FRANK F. BLOOMER, Alpha, '08, National Secretary

ABUNCH like the original Los Amigos Club," as one brother put it, is a fair characterization of Diversity Club that became Eta of Alpha Kappa Lambda on October 15. Active participants in Christian activities, a creditable scholarship record, a willingness to take part in campus affairs, limited pocket-books—Eta unquestionably has the makings of a real AKL chapter.

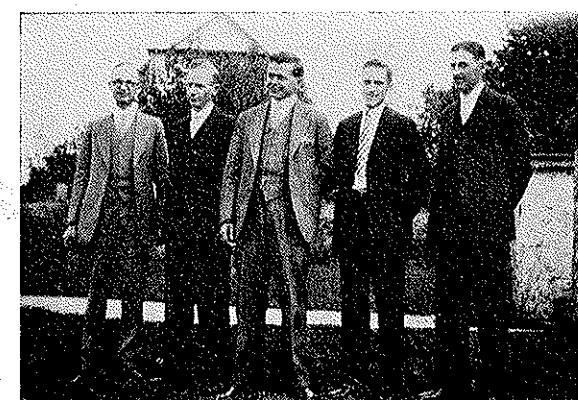

Even though they retired about 3:30 a. m. that Saturday night a goodly number of the boys were out to Sunday School in the morning and they were evidently used to going. At the morning worship hour they attended church in a body. I suspect considerable discussion was necessary to determine which church; anyhow we went to the Methodist church.

On the campus in the Administration Building, I saw a gigantic chart in the main hallway, with the scholarship standing of all W. S. C. organized groups painted thereon so that none might be ignorant of the figures. Among the national and local social fraternities, Diversity Club was second on the chart. Dean of Men Morrow spoke very favorably of Diversity Club and appeared to be well pleased to have AKL enter Washington State College.

Eta has made a good start in campus activity. A couple of crimson W's were in evidence at the house. Singing and debating appear to be their chief campus interests at present. Six of the boys are on the Glee Club. Speaking of singing, it is the custom at W. S. C. for a newly installed chapter of a national fraternity to serenade all the organized women's groups, starting at midnight. They did so exceedingly well. It was a bit unfortunate that more AKL songs were not available to teach these boys. However, perhaps the National Music Committee can look to some contributions from Pullman in the future.

The house manager's problems remind one of the manager's problems at other chapters. In general men of AKL calibre are not favored with great wealth, so that the financial problem is one we will always have with us. We will have to make up in good management what we lack in cash resources. Eta, along with other chapters, will benefit from the plan of chapter house finance that it is hoped will be ready for adoption at the Lawrence Conclave this December.

It was a real privilege to attend the installation of Eta Chapter. And these words form our Installation Ritual could indeed come from the heart: "Now, with the solemn joy of having discovered a kindred group who share our high and holy purposes, we are prepared to accept you into our fellowship".

Five of the AKL alumni who helped in the installation of Eta Chapter. National Secretary Bloomer, author of the accompanying impression, is at left end.

The Birth of Eta

is only the outward manifestation of a brotherhood already firmly established. But to the National Fraternity this chapter is significant. We have accepted into our midst new brothers—men in whom the fraternal spirit is not new, and whose attitude toward life is not different from ours. They are representing us on their campus, where they will uphold the traditions of Alpha Kappa Lambda and enlarge the sphere of our influence in the college world. Their presence among us and their association with us cannot fail to affect us deeply, just as we shall leave some mark of our individuality upon them. The interchange of ideas and co-operation in the attempt to solve the intricate problems of life, is the only excuse for the existence of a national fraternity. Therefore, we are looking forward with interest to the contribution these men are going to make toward a greater and better Alpha Kappa Lambda.

An Eta Response

but steady growth of our national is able testimony to the fact that our fraternity does live up to its ideals. Rapid expansion would not be conducive to careful selection, but careful expansion will eventually lead to a powerful fraternity that lives its ideals of Christian character, high scholarship, and social leadership.

A number of the faculty members of the State College of Washington have expressed themselves as being thoroughly in sympathy with the ideas of our fraternity and have given much encouragement to the local chapter. The responsibility of meeting the challenge of living up to its ideals is left, then, to the individuals of the chapter. By assuming this charge, we have a part in attaining the aims of Alpha Kappa Lambda. We at Eta are very thankful to have this opportunity.

Where the Conclave Will Be Held

Delta Chapter House at 641 Louisiana Avenue, Lawrence, Kansas, where the national conclave of Alpha Kappa Lambda will be held December 28, 29 and 30. The Kansas brothers are busy planning a time that will make the state as famous for hospitality as it is for sunflowers and William Allen White.

President Olsen Speaks Delta's Welcome

DELTA wishes to extend a sincere and hearty welcome to the national officers, official delegates from collegiate and alumni chapters and to any other members of Alpha Kappa Lambda to the national conclave which will be held in the University of Kansas chapter house, 641 Louisiana Avenue, Lawrence, Kansas, December 28, 29 and 30.

According to the constitution each collegiate chapter and each alumni chapter is entitled to be represented by one or two official delegates. Voting will be by chapters. Each chapter vote shall be determined by the official delegates thereof. Each collegiate chapter shall have two votes and each alumni chapter one vote. Any member of the fraternity, however, is privileged to attend and take part in the discussions.

In the recent Progress Report there was compiled a list of a few of the topics that will be taken up. It included:

Shall we adopt the pin ceremony as a part of the initiation ritual? Can pledge ritual be improved? Plans for expansion. Conservation of fraternity ideals. Consideration of a proposed manual for pledges. National system of chapter house finances. What is our official Fraternity hymn? Making standing rules part of the By-Laws. Use of a proposal blank in suggesting candidates for membership. Other subjects have already come up and many more will be presented at the conclave.

Here at Delta, committees have been appointed and plans are in the making for our long looked-forward-to meeting. A tour of the campus and other points of interest is scheduled. Last but not least will be the informal party at the Country Club for the visiting guests, Friday night, December 30. Each AKL may consider this a personal invitation to attend the conclave.

GEORGE A. OLSEN,
President of Delta.

Many AKL Alumni in Education

By HARRY A. ROMMEL, Zeta '26

AS would be expected a survey of the records of AKL alumni reveals a wide range of occupations. Here we find a bond salesman, here a minister, here is an industrial engineer, and there a farm adviser. Although the diversity of occupation is great, one cannot help but notice how many are engaged in some sort of educational work.

It seems almost as if the learning process, so firmly begun at the Alma Mater, must be continued in later life. Or perhaps it is the urge of being among students, which prompts so many to enter the teaching profession. There is, no doubt, some magnetic force there, which attracts men into this field. Not only are there a good many "school teachers," but also an increasing group who have climbed to more responsible positions in educational circles, such as superintendencies, and even college and university professorships.

In order to convey a little more completely the purpose of this study, we have juggled the cards in our index, counted and recounted them to arrive at this conclusion: out of nearly 500 AKL graduates there are 75 engaged in educational work, or approximately 16 per cent. Active chapters should particularly welcome this information because here is a splendid way to get a line-up on new material for the future of the organization.

The writer knows full well the list below is not entirely complete. If any names are omitted it is due to the fact that a recent card has not been issued. The editor of THE LOGOS has offered his assurance that a number of misplacements no doubt are included. In case of error, please send in the proper location, and a correction will appear in the next issue.

doubled. At the present time the enrollment is slightly over twenty-seven hundred.

Not only has the college grown in numbers, but also in buildings, equipment, and educational standards. The college received an endowment from the National government as well as funds from the State. Two grants of land, one of 90,000 acres and the other of 100,000 acres were also given to support the school.

The buildings on the campus can best be described by the pictures. Rogers Field is located in a hollow just below the campus, forming a natural stadium of considerable size. The running track is a half-mile oval and inside of the track are three football fields. The stands are built to seat but 12,000. However they take up but a small section of the available space, and more stands can be erected when the crowds become sufficient to demand them.

The new Gym which is now nearing completion, is just one side of the athletic field. It is being equipped with a swimming tank, five basket ball floors, and has a constructed seating capacity of 5,000, which can be augmented by the use of temporary seats. This building when completed will be the largest structure on the campus.

"Good Stuff"

By M. REED COLEMAN, Zeta '28

DURING your last eventful year in high school, were you a player on the football team, a member of the cast of the senior play, an officer of the debating club, editor-in-chief of the year book, and secretary and valedictorian of your class? If you were, and you probably were, did you round out that career of promise when you reached college?

Common experience denies it. Too wide is the chasm between that grandiose high school senior state and the lowly fresh-manhood of college. And the higher altitudes the man has traversed in his prep school, the farther and harder he can fall, into the bewildering maze of new surroundings, new people, new studies, and the countless new activities at the bottom of the chasm, which is the university.

Some few succeed in bridging the gap. They refuse to be bewildered by the multiplicity and novelty of elements in their new situation; they pause instead, to choose wisely from among these many and strange elements one which commends itself to them, to which henceforth they will subordinate all the others. Then later, when we are just beginning to consider how we would do it if we had college to do over again, we wonder at the signal successes of those certain few in their various lines of endeavor.

Zeta is proud to have one of that aristocracy in its membership. He is Russell Arden Fisher '27, who not only did things in high school, but who has done them in college, and who, unless we miss our guess, is going to keep right on doing them out there in that graduate school—Life.

Like the difficult task of adaptation which he faced when he entered the high school at Ludington, Mich., with the insecure foundation of a small country school training gained between the busy seasons on the farm, the handicap of having to work for his board and room confronted him when he entered the university. But he bore his high school honors lightly, and he cherished no illusions as to what college owed him. Instead he accepted the situation, decided he did not have the time for outside activities, and determined to make primary his prime purpose for coming. He chose—and he chose to study.

He went through to near the end of his junior year, earning the while the greater part of his expenses. There came then the first concrete recognition of his perseverance of purpose. A scholarship, instituted by one Henry Strong, an alumnus of the university, for a certain few "meritorious and deserving students" in the line of scholarship, came as a welcome surprise. He was not studying for pecuniary reward—but this meant the assurance that he would have free for his senior year the time he had previously spent in working.

Other scholastic honors followed in quick succession. He was elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, an honor society dedicated "to the unity and democracy of education". He easily "made" Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest and proudest of the national honorary societies. He received an invitation with the rest of the upper ten percent of his class to the annual University honors convocation.

In particular lines of study other honors were forthcoming. After taking two courses in astronomy, he applied for an assistantship in the astronomy department and received it, from among several applicants. A week later, however, he withdrew from that student assistantship to accept another in the physics department, a job not only more lucrative but also more to his liking, because it lay in the field of his specialization. He now holds, for probably the first time at Michigan any man has in his first year after graduation held, a part-time instructorship in that same physics department, while carrying at the same time ten hours of graduate work in physics to apply on his master's degree.

Outside the field of his specialty there were more honors. His work in the university unit of R. O. T. C. brought him the election to membership in Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military society. More than that, he was offered the commission of second-lieutenant in the regular army, which each major college or university having a R. O. T. C. unit is entitled to award, to enter upon a period of training as the representative of the University of Michigan unit. This commission, however, he declined, in favor of continuing his graduate work at the university.

Such is a brief outline of his academic accomplishments. "Fine," you say, "but what a grind he must have been!" Not at all.

It was early in his junior year that he pledged to Alpha Kappa Lambda. Glad to associate himself with other men who regarded scholarship as an ideal, he felt at the same time, (Continued on Page Twenty-nine)

Five Chapters First in Scholarship!

SCHOLARSHIP reports for the past semester are simply too good to talk about! A brief statement of how the chapters stood is sufficient. And that is easily set down. Alpha, Beta, Gamma, Delta and Epsilon chapters led the list of national social fraternities on their campuses! No report from Zeta may be all that keeps it from being unanimous. Every indication is that Eta chapter just installed at Washington State College will increase the percentage.

In the case of Alpha the grade represents a considerable increase over the previous semester. At the University of California, the Dean of Men includes professional fraternities in the same list with social fraternities. Two professional organizations were ahead of Alpha. It is the practice at other universities where chapters of Alpha Kappa Lambda are located to list them separately. There is no need calling attention to the fact that a higher average would be expected in an organization where all the members are studying the same course of work.

Beta is first for the second consecutive year and is now striving even harder in order to gain permanent possession of the Scholarship Bowl which they already have temporarily. Last June in the graduating class were three Phi Beta Kappa keys. Honor is there due.

Gamma's first place has about been accepted by the rest of the campus. During the 14 semesters of its national existence it has led the 70 social organizations 10 times. Three times the leadership has continued uninterrupted for three semesters. In the Gamma class of 1927 were graduates who had membership in Tau Beta Pi, Beta Gamma Sigma, and Phi Beta Kappa considered the highest honors respectively in engineering, commerce and liberal arts.

The grand prize goes to Delta where the possession of first place in scholarship has been tucked away in the AKL house for nine successive years. This last time the average was 4.78. Beta Theta Pi was next with 4.66. The Delta men even led the girls on the University of Kansas campus. The highest sorority, Alpha Omicron Pi trailed them by .02. At Gamma, too, the closest rival right along has been Beta Theta Pi.

But this news needs no enlargement. The accomplishment stands for itself. May the good work be even better!

Armenia and Alpha Kappa Lambda

FROM Leninakan, Armenia—not far from where Noah found his ark perched when the flood waters went down—comes a check for $5 and the information that its sender is Everett D. Gunn, Delta '22, Superintendent of Industrial Schools for the Near East Relief. Gunn is subscriber No. 351 to the National Endowment Fund. He is another one of these AKLs who are going into all the world to preach the Gospel in one form or other. China has them, so has India, and Ceylon and Hawaii, now Armenia.

He writes that Robert S. Buckalew, Alpha '26, is also in the Caucasus to serve in the finance department of the Near East Relief. The cutting edge of civilization may have its drawbacks, but the challenging circumstances only seem to whet up enthusiasm to accomplish things.

"Armenia is an interesting country to one interested in the ideals of Alpha Kappa Lambda," writes Gunn. "It seems that the country is steadily advancing. Education for the masses is being developed as rapidly as possible. I never saw people so hungry for education. Under the despotism of the Czar and the Church little practical education was given before the Revolution, especially to the common people. Popular education in Armenia was prohibited beyond a rudimentary second grade.

"Now thousands of people are in night schools as well as children enrolled in classes during the day. People in this section are gradually recovering from the effects of the terrible earthquake and many have expressed their sympathy for the refugees of America whose plight has been caused by the floods in the Mississippi Valley.

"The countryside is very beautiful these June days. Green fields stretch over the hills like the patchwork of a crazy quilt. In the distance Mt. Ararat is showing her snowy cap.

"My position here consists in supervising the vocational training of the orphans of the Near East Relief. Officially I am the superintendent of industrial schools which we conduct on the Dalton plan—one-half the day academic and one-half shop and work. In the shops we make everything from shoes, clothing, tin stoves and furniture to fillet lace, rugs and padlocks. I like my work even with its 'ups and downs'. My experience so far convinces me that these children represent the universality of childhood the world over under similar conditions.

"Never since the return of the Boxer indemnity to China has any act of the United States created such good feeling in a foreign land as the establishment of the Near East Relief. Although small in the amount of money compared to the great armaments, these are efforts that will ultimately help to eliminate the great scourge of war which the common people of every nation hates.

"Those of you who are interested in a progressive religion will say that miracles are happening in the Near East as they did 3,000 years ago. Shackles which have held back science and progress are slowly falling away. More than ever is the observer convinced that free education is the basis of progress.

"Mrs. Gunn and our baby, Helen, are with me, and are well. We hope to spend some time in Palestine."

Three New Alumni Groups Organize

New York City

By E. R. LEIBERT, Gamma '25

GOTHAM alumni of AKL held their first meeting of the fall season at the Fraternity Club in New York, September 19 with most of the Alpha Kappa Lambda men in the city either present or accounted for. Such trifling things as professions and vacations had broken up the group for the summer months, so it was the first gathering since the memorable social fling at Jannsen's Haufbrau last spring.

The band had been called out and all were set for a gala occasion in welcoming Brother Torrey Stearns, Gamma '25, who came to New York in August to take up his new duties with the National Council Y. M. C. A. in charge of all newspaper and magazine publicity for that organization. Torrey pulled an Amundsen, however, and although he didn't sail for Europe without notice, failed to show up at the meeting. After prolonged discussion it was decided to hold the meeting but to omit the welcome ceremonies, since the principal character could not be there. We understand that Torrey's excuse was perfectly legitimate, but we can't resist taking our keen disappointment out on him in some way.

The notable assemblage that Stearns missed was made up of Frank Lenz, Alpha '14, president; Prof. Clarence G. Dittmer, Epsilon honorary; Edwin Uehling, Epsilon '25; Ralph G. McGurdy, Alpha '14; Clyde B. Campbell, Delta '22; Irving Bachellor, Zeta; Carl Rogers, Epsilon '24; Eddie Leibert, Gamma '25, and John Gillin, Epsilon '27, who was visiting in New York.

Brother Lenz gave a report on the activities of the chapter, and called for news from anybody who could furnish news. In the absence of Hugo Rusch, Epsilon '23, the esteemed secretary—who it is rumored had a date up in the Bronx that evening—the secretary's report was omitted.

An interesting discussion on the subject of expansion was held, and news of the probable installation of Eta chapter in October was eagerly received. Professor Dittmer gave an informal report on his work at New York University, and Brother Leibert reported that Irving Dilliard, Gamma '27, had been appointed editor of THE LOGOS.

John Gillin, who had been selected as a member of the faculty of the Floating University before its cruise around the world was cancelled, reported on the tour which he is taking with his family. He left New York early in October on the first leg of a trip around the globe, going to San Francisco via Panama Canal.

The second meeting of the year was held October 17 at the Fraternity Club with a small attendance due to a rainy night. Clyde Campbell was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Hugo Rusch who has efficiently kept the Gotham alumni well supplied with postcard notices of meetings in the past. Brother Campbell was unanimously elected over his own vigorous protest.

It was agreed that in the future meetings will be held on the third Monday and the third Tuesday of alternate months, in order to allow members who cannot come on one night to be able to attend every other meeting.

A news letter from Delta brings the word that Dick Hanson '26, who recently returned from China, is enrolled at Union Theological Seminary. Although he has not been located yet by the AKL men, he is to be corraled at the next meeting of the group to give a talk on his experiences in China.

H. E. (Blondie) Wessman, Gamma '24, has forsaken the cause of bigger and better bridges across the Hudson River to return to the University of Illinois campus. Blondie departed hence the first of September, and is an instructor in the College of Engineering.

Hugo Rusch, Epsilon '23, has taken on new responsibilities with the same firm he has been connected with and is now doing more extensive travelling up and down the Atlantic coast as a salesman for A. C. Neilson & Company.

Al Meyer, Gamma '25, R. H. (Spain) Tull, Gamma '28, and James Kenneth (Skinny) Felts, Gamma '28 headed the list of the seven or nine million people who visited New York during the month of September. Brother Eddie Liebert, Gamma '25, recently deceased editor of THE LOGOS, acted as host, guide and chaperon. All AKL brothers visiting Manhattan consult brother Leibert for sightseeing rates.

Frank Lenz, Alpha '14, president of the New York Alumni chapter has had articles in Outlook, Association Men and other publications recently. Brother Lenz had a pen with a reputation, especially on the subject of conditions in China.

Torrey Stearns, Gamma '25, severed his connection on the staff of the Chicago Daily News in August to take up his new duties with the National Council Y. M. C. A. with his office at 347 Madison Avenue, New York City. Brother Stearns has charge of all newspaper and magazine publicity for the National Council.

Ralph McCurdy, Alpha '13, is connected with the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. Clyde Campbell, Delta '22, is located with the same firm.

Milwaukee, Wis.

With a nucleus of eight men, the Milwaukee AKL alumni chapter, composed entirely of Epsilon graduates, held its first meeting recently. A telegram was sent to President Shna-thorst of Epsilon telling of the initial meeting. It was signed by Bob MacArthur, Ross Rusch, Elmer Mortenson, Carl Kasper, Jack Muth, George Darby and Eldon Schneller.

Kansas City, Mo.

By FRANCIS O. KANEHL, Delta '25

WINFRED ALBRIGHT, Delta '24, assistant credit manager of Strandberg McGreevy & Co., stock brokers, and often thought of in terms of "woman hater" thought I can't figure out where the misnomer originated, has pulled one on his friends. A rumor got started that Win had kicked the bucket so to speak as far as bachelorhood was concerned but he denied it so vehemently that all believed him. Now he has confessed to a few of his closest friends that he and his wife will be at home at 3027 Campbell, Kansas City, Mo.

The Kansas City alumni of AKL on September 28 started what is hoped to be the beginning of activity enough to warrant an alumni chapter. A group of eight including the following Delta men met at the Y. M. C. A. for a dinner and discussion of old times and future prospects concerning AKL: Vernon E. Kauffman '27, John Glendenning '24, Win Albright ex'24, Jay Wells '29, Ward Egbert '23, Marvin Woodward ex'23, Guy Boyer '20, George Lamb '27, and Fritz Kanehl. Future meetings and noonday luncheons will be planned.

Jack Ross, Delta, who has been serving time at the St. Joseph Sanitarium at Albuquerque, New Mexico, trying to outlive the little germs that took refuge in his chest a few years ago, writes that he is making a snappy comeback and is well enough to attend football games and flirt with the nurses. Jack is now at the Sojourners' Club, Fort Bayard, New Mexico.

A baby girl, Rebecca Ann, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Davidson, September 30, 1927. Oscar is at the Methodist Hospital, Indianapolis, Indiana.

St. Louis, Mo.

AN alumni chapter in St. Louis, Missouri, is not so far off it seems, now that the seven or more Alpha Kappa Lambda men in the city and suburbs know of each others nearby presence.

There may be others but the known present are: Arno J. Haack, Epsilon '25; Harold C. Mesch, Delta '26; Norman H. Plummer, Alpha '22, and Walter W. Whitaker, Delta, ex'26, all of St. Louis, and Harry A. Rommel, Zeta '26, and Irving L. Dilliard, Gamma '27, of Collinsville, Ill., and W. Nathan Cassella, Gamma ex'19, and Karl F. Koenig, Gamma '22, of Alton, Ill. Other members will no doubt show up when the alumni organization gets to functioning.

The night before Thanksgiving six of them met at the downtown Y. M. C. A. where Haack holds forth as assistant to the general secretary. Until a charter can be petitioned for a temporary organization with Haack as president and Dilliard as secretary was set up. Dinner meetings will be held at 6:30 o'clock on the night of the second Tuesday of every month in the downtown Y on Locust street at Sixteenth.

Any AKLs who happen through the capital of the 49th state are instructed to get in touch with Haack at the Y who will call a special meeting of the alumni group for a ringing welcome.

Los Angeles, Calif.

By OSMAN R. HULL, Alpha '12

THE Los Angeles Chapter of AKL is continuing its monthly meetings for the purpose of keeping the men acquainted with each other, and also for the purpose of studying the possibilities of expansion in Southern California.

We are very much encouraged to hear the good news concerning the first places in scholarship won by four of our chapters. Such information certainly helps in selling the merits of our fraternity.

Bryant Hall, president of our Los Angeles Chapter, is still in France with the American Legion. On his return in December we expect to hold a banquet as a welcome to our president and expect at least twenty-five of the brothers and their wives will attend.

Editorial

THE RIGHT HAND OF FELLOWSHIP

Welcome, brothers at Eta, welcome.

You have already been given the right hand of fellowship, and although the most recent, are just as much members of Alpha Kappa Lambda as the rest of us. National officers and representatives of the active chapters who were present at the installation made you feel our rejoicing all up and down the line. In the editor's opinion it is a matter for mutual glad feeling.

Our joining hands will only go to serve testimony for the proved adage that in union lies strength. Alpha Kappa Lambda's expansion has been slow. No mushroom growth for a fraternity with the basic plan it has. There needs to be no explanation—the reason is obvious. Zeta was installed in 1924. That is four years ago. Many a college fraternity has granted charters to a dozen or more in that time. We have no quarrel with them. According to their several policies, whatever they are, rapid expansion is no doubt justified. The AKL plan is different, and being different surely constitutes no grievous error.

That is the background, Eta, for your entrance. National Alpha Kappa Lambda will help you and you in turn will help it. Where you are, henceforth AKL will mean something. It will stand for a specific manner of living on the Pullman campus. It will have a definition in Washington State College life as clearcut as terms like U. S. Steel, Paramount Pictures, General Motors, Westminster Abbey. As the Diversity Club you made that place for yourselves. In Alpha Kappa Lambda you will give it the added support of a national fraternity standing with you shoulder to shoulder.

There is no denying you will find it advantageous in your work of being a fraternity to have membership in a "national". Your status over your "local" days will be improved. But just as fortunate are the rest of us in being able to accept into our brotherhood a group of your calibre.

We both should be grateful to our alumni who through the Cleveland friendship opened the way. Doubtless we would have found each other sooner or later—but through them it was sooner. Incidentally your admission will cause the editor additional work. He will have to write more letters, handle more news, edit more copy. But he takes on the "extra load" joyfully. Eta, here's our hands across the mountains.

EPSILON'S VIEW OF PLEDGING

It is interesting to note the following practice of Epsilon chapter in the rushing season at the beginning of the present semester:

"Undoubtedly we will not get many from the present influx of Frosh immediately, but Epsilon has always chosen carefully, and it will continue to do so. We have entered the present rushing season with the idea of getting only the best because the group feels that the best is none too good for Alpha Kappa Lambda."

THE MUCH-NEEDED HAIRCUT

This Christmas time Alpha Kappa Lambda will gather its representatives at Lawrence, Kansas, for a national conclave. Elsewhere in this issue President Olsen of Delta sounds the warm welcome that waits for all members of the fraternity who attend. There is no gathering better suited to the transaction of business and the enjoyment of a good time than a fraternity convention.

The national officers are gathering together everything in the way of fraternity business for consideration by the delegates and the hosts at Delta are planning what is known as a royal reception. That combination will be hard to beat.

It will be a case of the more the merrier. Besides delegate the national officers, delegates, and representatives of alumni chapters there will be a very useful place for other activities and alumni. Plan now to go to the Lawrence conclave.

CONCERNING A NICKNAME

Every fellow should have a nickname if at all possible. There are cases wherein a first class fraternity man is called by his first name straight through college. That is all right in certain cases, but ordinarily a monicker of somekind ought to be hung on him. The Joes, Jims, Petes, Jacks, Bills are as a rule lot better fellows than the Josephs, Jameses, Peters, Johns and Williams.

When he camped around Gamma chapter a span of some four years, the editor of THE LOGOS had a nickname. He still has. And furthermore he wants it used when being addressed in letters of fraternity business or otherwise. He doesn't threaten to throw a formally addressed letter into the waste basket without reading it—his feeling is not quite that strong, but he will like it better if you don't.

The nickname? Well, according to the way it was said around 407 East Daniel Street, you use the first four letters of his last name. Figure it out for yourself.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

The editor of THE LOGOS does a good bit of reading. His work calls for it and anyhow, he likes to. As other people who read, so does he wonder at the great mass of published material with catch titles and lurid jackets which pile high on the bookshop counters. What to read is a real question. For that reason the management points with pleasure to Dr. James C. Baker's department which begins in this issue.

Not connected, but related, is the material in THE LOGOS which follows under the heading "A Christmas Gift in Thought." Those quotations from Stuart Sherman, Charles A. Beard, James Harvey Robinson, Harold J. Laski and Norman Angell are as worthwhile contributions toward the job of assessing ourselves as the editor knows about. These are passages he exults in. After you read them send him paragraphs which mean a lot to you. Maybe we can really start something.

"In a Nook With a Book"

—Thomas a Kempis.
Conducted by the REV. JAMES C. BAKER, D.D., Gamma Honorary

The Editor of THE LOGOS has asked for brief notes on current literature "with special emphasis on books of religious and inspirational nature".

Prayers for Use in an Indian College, Hoyland, J. S., London. Paper cover. The Sacrament of Common Life, same author, W. Heffer and Sons, Cambridge. Discovered last year while convalescing. Beautiful, authentic, quickening. A real event of that summer for me. Interesting, too, as showing the reflex influence of Indian thought upon an English Christian. The second of the above has a recurring weekly cycle of meditations concerning Sonship, Nature, Home Life.

Prayer in an Age of Science, William Adams Brown, Scribners. Scholarly, frank, helpful. Author describes himself as "one who believes that prayer is the heart of all vital religion; yet in his own experience has often found it hard to pray". Describes his difficulties growing out of modern science and the way through. A very valuable book.

Reality, B. H. Streeter, Macmillan. Best and most readable book on the philosophy of religion I have read in years. Done by a Cambridge scholar who knows the day in which we live. Stiff reading, but worth all it costs in effort and money.

Tristram, Edwin Arlington Robinson, Macmillan. Beautiful poetry retelling an ancient story. Author counted by many European scholars the greatest of our American poets and among the greatest English-writing poets of all time. Collected works recently published by Macmillan.

Death Comes for the Archbishop, Willa Cather, Alfred Knopf. Clean, wholesome, interesting. Entirely worthy of the artist who writes it. I mention it because it is so difficult to find novels that one cares to recommend.

What and Why in China, Paul Hutchinson, Willett, Clark & Colby. Written by the managing editor of The Christian Century, who lived for a time in China. Brief, reliable, up-to-date, by one who knows the mind of young China.

THE LOGOS AND EXPANSION

It has been suggested that certain alumni chapters and members of the fraternity in strategic locations could use to very good advantage, extra copies of Logos in efforts to interest local fraternities in Alpha Kappa Lambda. Any member who can thus make good use of extra copies may have them on application.

WE LOSE OUR SKINS

It beats all how our brothers do get out in the world and out of touch with the fraternity now and then. The latest progress report shows that Alpha leads the Lost List with eight men whose whereabouts are unknown. Alpha being the oldest chapter naturally might be considered to be most likely to lead, but it is with surprise that we find Zeta second with six. Beta has three, Gamma and Epsilon none. So far all the Eta men are present or accounted for.

A penny postcard will tell the national organization where you have moved to and may save return postage on THE LOGOS and remaining later. Let's don't play hide and seek.

IN WHICH WE GET HONORABLE MENTION

At the University of Illinois the Fijis continue to maintain their remarkable record in scholarship. Fraternity ratings for the second semester of the academic year 1926-27 reveal our Chi Iota Chapter standing third among 65 national groups. Our figure is 3.495. Beta Theta Pi is the only old-time national above us. The sons of Wooglin rated 3.663. First place was won by Alpha Kappa Lambda, one of the new nationals. The Fijis' scholarship for the second semester was even better than that for the first semester.—From the PHU GAMMA DELTA.

Cupid's Arrow Hits Wessman

WALT WESSMAN, Gamma '22, national treasurer, the man who is responsible for the financial security of Alpha Kappa Lambda, has abandoned what George Ade calls the joys of single blessedness. Miss Nevada Elizabeth Murray, University of Illinois '25 and member of Kappa Alpha Theta is now Mrs. Wessman. The ceremony was held in Champaign and a number of the Gamma boys participated. They took a trip through the West during which they attended the installation of Eta Chapter at Pullman, Washington.

Cupid has been unusually busy in the vicinity of Gamma men all year. Gerald L. Wallace '25 and Miss Opal Knutson of Milford were married on August 22. Jerry has taught and coached in the high schools at Maroa and Milford, Ill.

C. Willard Haworth '26, instructor in vocational agriculture in the Melvin, Ill., Community High school, and Miss Virginia Dale of St. Joseph, Ill., were married July 12.

Wilfred S. Myers '28, of Mendon, Ill., and Miss Creeta Mildred Clark, were married on June 11 in La Prairie, Ill. James H. Kahlert '26, of Carlyle, Ill., also forsook bachelorhood during the summer.

WILBUR'S SON FORMS INTERNATIONAL CLUB

(San Francisco Chronicle)

Stanford University, June 21.—As an experiment in practical internationalism on the Stanford campus, Leonard Wilbur, (Beta '28), son of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, is organizing a living club of twelve students of various nationalities.

The group will occupy the same house and will include Americans, Englishmen, Filipinos and Russians. Wilbur is a junior at Stanford.

MISSIONARY SEES CHINESE REVOLT

Rev. and Mrs. Justin P. Follette and three children, who spent five years in China, where Follette was engaged in missionary work under the Methodist board, have come to Berkeley to spend a year, while Rev. Follette (Alpha '15) takes graduate work at the University of California and the Pacific School of Religion.

Rev. and Mrs. Follette returned to America last spring, shortly after the Nanking trouble, on the same steamer with Mrs. J. E. Williams, whose husband, Dr. Williams, president of Nanking University, was killed by looters. Since their return they have been in Southern California visiting Rev. Follette's mother, Mrs. H. W. Follette.

The hand of Soviet Russia was seen in the demonstrations in China before the serious trouble began, according to Rev. and Mrs. Follette. Shortly before the Nanking uprising, through a Russian plot it was believed, a Chinese launch was sunk in the river at Wuhu, near the Follette home. This launch was raised, the bodies of 30 dead Chinese placed in open caskets beside it, and huge demonstrations were held. This was at a spot near the Follette garden. For weeks the hospitals at Wuhu were taxed with hundreds of Chinese who had been shot in the riots.

The day after the Nanking trouble Rev. and Mrs. Follette and children went to Shanghai, and ten days later sailed for America.

Rev. and Mrs. Follette spent the first year in China learning the language at Nanking. The second year Rev. Follette was director of religious education in a church institution in Nanking. Later he supervised religious education work in a district within a radius of 50 miles of Nanking, and the last year he was supervising some new work at Wuhu, four hours steamer trip up the river from Nanking.

Rev. Follette took his junior and senior years' work at the University here. He served during the World War as a flyer in France and after his return took graduate work at Princeton and at Drew Theological School, Madison, N. Y.

Mrs. Follette will be remembered as Miss Clarice Wylie, a student at the University before her marriage.

Rev. and Mrs. Follette have taken a cottage on Walnut Street for the year.

MOUNTAIN SCALERS CLIMB MT. RAINIER

Paradise Inn., Rainier National Park, Wash., July 26.—Batting his way over a wilderness of ice, across bottomless crevasses and along rocky ledges at the very edge of infinity, to three miles above sea-level, Bruce L. Zimmerman (Alpha '24) of 137 McGee Avenue, Berkeley, reached the summit of Mount Rainier, 14,408 feet high and America's tallest perpetually snow-capped peak, in Rainier National Park a few days ago.

Rainier is rated by mountaineers to be one of the most difficult mountains in the world to scale. Prospective climbers, therefore, are subjected to a thorough scrutiny before permission to attempt the ascent is given.

The Berkeley man began his climb from Paradise Inn., 5,557 feet above sea-level, where he had gone with the purpose of scaling the famous peak. He left the Inn shortly after 1:30 in the afternoon, and Camp Muir, the government shelter cabins at the 10,000-foot elevation, half way up, was reached at 7 p. m., after a difficult trip over practically unbroken trails.

At Camp Muir the party rested until 3:10 the next morning, when the drive for the summit was begun. First in the eerie moonlight, and later in the rising sun, they pushed on, arriving at the crater in the summit of the mountain at about 9:30 a. m.

An indication of the difficulty of the climb may be gained from the fact that as the party neared the summit, only 15 or 20 steps could be taken between rests. They were forced to rest standing, as reclining in the snow and rising again would consume too much greatly-needed energy.

The party spent about an hour in the fantastic steam caves in the crater of the extinct volcano, sleeping and resting. The return trip was begun at about 10:30, and Paradise Valley was reached again shortly after 5 p. m.

Zimmerman had as his guide Leon H. Brigham, a veteran member of the Rainier National Park guide service, famous as a body of highly trained mountaineers.

U. C. GRADUATE HEADS SACRAMENTO SCHOOL

Sacramento, June 7.—George C. Jensen, (Alpha '12), of Palo Alto, director of the research division, California Teachers' Association, will be principal of Sacramento High School for the ensuing year, it was decided by the school board last night.

Jensen will replace John F. Dale, recently ousted by the board, which precipitated a school "strike" of several hundred students. The strike was quietly quelled by police, school authorities and parents.

Jensen is a graduate of the University of California, and served as instructor in Elko County High School, Nevada, in 1913 and 1914, and principal of Eureka Senior High School and dean of the Junior High School in 1920-1926.

CITY MANAGER FORM FAVORED

(San Francisco Examiner)

Expert administrators are needed in the government of a city as sorely as they are needed in the government of the State or the Nation, says Professor Samuel C. May (Alpha Honorary) of the University of California political science department.

Formerly a member of the Berkeley city council, Professor May is one of the best-known authorities in the United States on municipal government. In a recent address before the municipal government section of the Commonwealth Club, he told of his research work in this field.

"Densely populated areas are increasing both in number and size," he pointed out. "Urban development is a characteristic of modern western civilization, and in the form in which it is found at the present time is comparatively a modern phenomenon. City problems are new rather than old—their solution makes more insistent demands than ever before. Never in the history of western civilization has such a large proportion of people lived in urban communities as at present," Professor May says.

"The orthodox type of city government was employed down to the beginning of the twentieth century. This system rests upon the principle that legislative and administrative authority should be vested in separate hands. The citizens believed that to concentrate both powers in the same hands would be detrimental to their best interests.

"City government by a commission started with the principle that division of powers had no place in business administration, and therefore not in government. Disregarding the old notion concerning the usefulness of checks and balances, it puts all legislative and administrative authority in the hands of the same group of men, a commission elected by the people, but divided the administrative duties among them.

"The city manager plan was devised to remedy the chief defects of the commission form of government, that is, lack of connection or concentration in administrative responsibility and the tendency to put the various departments in the direct charge of men who have no expert qualifications. The city manager is appointed by the commission.

"He has direct charge of the entire detailed control of the administrative functions. He acts under the general instruction of and is responsible to the elected council, which confines itself to the responsibility of selecting an efficient manager, giving him sufficient funds for a considered program and then demanding only results," he declared.

"The city manager plan has spread rapidly during the last few years," says Professor May. "It has secured expert administrators, has increased efficiency and has improved the methods of local finance."

KANSAS PHYSICIAN WEDS ST. LOUISAN

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

A notable wedding of the week will be that of Miss Betty

Weidmer and Dr. C. P. Jasperson (Gamma '22) of Topeka, Kan., which will take place Tuesday, June 21 at 8:30 p. m. at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wiedmer, 6139 Kingsbury boulevard. Rev. John W. MacIvor will officiate. Willard Jasperson of Kansas City, Mo., brother of the bridegroom, will serve as best man.

The prospective bride is a graduate of the Washington University School of Nursing. Dr. Jasperson is a graduate of the University of Illinois and of the Washington University School of Medicine. He spent last year practicing in the Hawaiian Islands. He is a member of Alpha Kappa Lambda and of Phi Beta Pi Medical Fraternity.

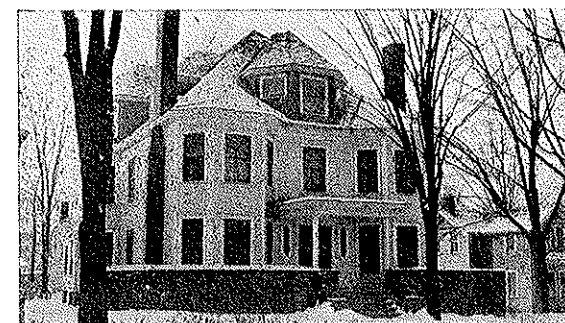

Following a visit to Topeka, and a stay at Three Lakes, Wis., Dr. Jasperson and his bride will be at home in Amarillo, Tex., after September 1.

SEEKS LEGISLATURE NOMINATION

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Champaign, Ill., September 17.—The candidacy of William E. Gilmore, (Gamma '22), Champaign for the Democratic nomination for the Nineteenth District, Illinois Legislature, has been announced. Gilmore recently resigned as commander of the Nineteenth District of the Illinois American Legion. He was graduated from the University of Illinois.

Zeta House in Winter

Zeta's house at 604 East Madison Street is about a block from the campus. On the east there is the Alpha Rho Chi fraternity, while the fellows on the west side look out upon a University Woman's Residence.

Thirty men can be accommodated in this house. On the first floor, the parlor extends across the width of the house, and has a large fireplace at each end.

Large doorways connect it with the dining room and the card room, so that all three may be combined and make an ideal place for our social events.

It is an old house, but in good condition. Some of the brothers got busy and painted the outside, a new roof was put on, a new porch floor made, and so we show the world a good front.

News From the Active Chapters

ALPHA CHAPTER

ARNOLD E. NEEDHAM '29 and LLOYD H. BRINCK '29,
Chapter Editors

Program Well Rounded—

Alpha can be proud of her well-rounded program of activities this year. In the field of athletic endeavor we are represented by men in most of the major sports, and in a few of the minor.

Dave Chase '29, cavorts in the track uniform of the Blue and Gold. He is trying out for a birth among the California half-milers and high jumpers.

Fritz Henderson '30, is also a distance runner, specializing in the two mile run. All fall he was deeply concerned with blocking line smashes and smearing end runs, while in the uniform of a "Goof" football warrior. He wears numerals in both football and track.

Ed Gates '31, will be seen with the freshman track team this year. He is a hurdle and a broad jumper.

Jim Workman '30, who stroked last year's freshman shell has been pulling oar No. 6 in the varsity boat during this semester's practice.

Lee Watkins '30, is another varsity track aspirant, specializing in the broad jump.

Jack Banfield '29, and Bub Hughill '30, are out for the 145 weight team. Jack wears a Circle C won last year.

Frosh Are Active Too—

Ted Morgan '31, one of the pledges is expected to make a strong bid for the Frosh tennis squad this spring.

Two of the new men answered the call for frosh oarsmen, they are Jack Smith and Hugh Cardinell.

Alpha men have also turned their hands to other campus activities.

Bish Bishopric '28, is on the senior editorial board of the Blue and Gold, University of California annual. Jack Banfield is one of the junior editors of the same publication.

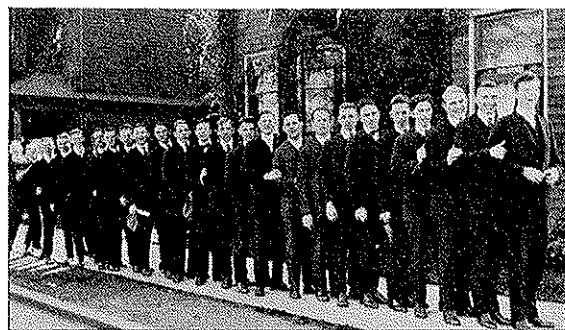

Edge Needham '29, was recently elected assistant varsity yell leader. He is also a member of the Rally committee.

Rilly Rhodes '29, Malc Hadden '29 and Jack Smith '31 are seen every Saturday wearing the Blue and Gold uniforms of the A. S. U. C. Band.

"Aggressive Christian Leadership"—

When religious activities are mentioned, Alpha again expands the old chest, for several men have climbed to great heights and all are active in some way in this field.

Bub Hughill '30, Billy Rhodes '29, Hube Townsend '28 and MacI Hadden '29, are very active in Christian Endeavor work. Hube is president of his branch of that society and Malc is chairman of the committee on religious education which is conducting classes every Sunday morning on the campus in connection with the "Y". Serving with him on this committee are Edge Needham, Bub Hughill and Frit Henderson.

The Alpha Chapter boys—twenty-four of 'em—back at the time of the Panama Pacific Exposition. That was twelve years ago.

Luke Townsend is secretary of the University Y. M. C. A.

Lee Watkins '30 is leader of a pioneer group connected with the Albany "Y," and also takes an active part in Sunday School work.

Dave Chase is a cabinet member of the local "Y" and is upperclass chairman of the freshman department.

BETA CHAPTER

FREDERICK J. COOKE '28, Chapter Editor

Improvements Planned—

Beta has opened the college year with a bang, and all events on the calendar point to a banner season. With officers in Fred Miller, president; Bunny Walker, vice-president, and Ted Lathrop, secretary, the best is to be expected.

Several of the boys who have been out of school for awhile, either working at various occupations or attending college elsewhere, have returned this autumn quarter. Among them are Fred Miller '26, Jim Mansfield '28, Stub Dawson '28, and Fred Cooke '28. We are glad to see these actives back with us once more.

The house is overcrowded at this time, due to our large number of pledges and our old members returning. However, we fully expect to have accommodations enlarged upon the first of the year, a thing to which we are looking forward with no small interest. We are only waiting upon the University, which is the owner of the property; then watch us go!

Sport Prospects Good—

The cross-country follows handball, and we intend to figure prominently in it. Our entrants will be three in number. Ted Madison and Bob Watkins have already taken two of the berths and it seems likely that Al Lemmon will be our third entrant.

The second week in November Beta concentrated attention on initiation. We have a splendid group of eight men who went through the ceremonies. These men have been named in a previous issue.

First in Scholarship, Again—

Early plans are underway for the Annual Formal, which will take place sometime during the Winter, or the Spring Quarter. This dance will be given in the remodelled house if our expectations as regards early action by the University are fulfilled. Otherwise in order to have the best of accommodations, we will give the dance at some suitable place in the vicinity of the University.

Beta again leads the social fraternities of the campus in scholarship rating. Since this is our second successive year of leadership, we are putting forth all possible effort to make it three in a row, thereby gaining permanent possession of the Scholarship Bowl, which has already been awarded us for the current year.

Last year three members of Beta made Phi Beta, namely, Wilbur Verplank, Frederick Stapp and Kenneth McDougall. In addition to this, upper division honors were awarded to Alvin Cox and Frederick Kellogg. All of these men are members of the class of '27, and Beta is very proud of their accomplishments.

Three at Harvard—

Three of Beta's alumni are attending Harvard University this year taking graduate work. Each is in a different school.

Alfred Post '27, past president, is in the Harvard School of Business Administration. Fred Kellogg '27 is at Harvard Medical School and Kenneth McDougall '27 is at Harvard Law School. Kellogg married, in the early part of July, Miss Stella Plummer of Centralia, Washington, a Mills College girl.

He had the novel idea of taking a trip on the ocean as a honeymoon. Incidentally, the boys in the house received their cigars from Tampa, Florida. The smokes were of excellent quality, extra fine both in color and in taste.

Bolt White is taking post-grad work at Columbia.

GAMMA CHAPTER

VERNON L. HEATH '28, Chapter Editor

Faculty Talks Popular—

In accordance with the policy of the past, Gamma is continuing its Sunday morning chapel services and is having leading faculty men over each Sunday morning for short talks. So far, Prof. F. R. Watson of the department of physics, Prof. G. H. Dungan of the College of Agriculture, Dr. Andrew Holmes of the First Congregational Church of Champaign, and Prof. Coleman R. Griffith of the College of Education have been here for the service. Evening watch is being continued with different members of the chapter leading each night during the week.

Len Grable '28, veteran tackle on the Varsity football team for the past two years, has had a tough break this year and was not in the lineup as much as he might have been. He had an operation performed on his wrist last summer and as a result his hand has been in a weakened condition ever since.

Clarence Dykema '28, is continuing as a campus artist of renown this year and is doing pen and ink work for several campus publications. He is on the fencing squad and his most recent activity has been chairman of the ticket committee for the Homecoming Stunt Show. He is art editor of Illinois Magazine and the 1929 Illio.

Taubeneck Wins SDX Award—

Pete Heath '28, is gaining a good reputation for doing nothing this year. He is serving as editor of the Y's Indian and represented the Illinois chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary inter-publication fraternity, at its national conclave in Columbus, Ohio, November 9 to 13.

Skinny Felts is going hot as a captain in the artillery this year.

J. W. (Dean) Rankin '29, was one of the three members of the University meat judging team which won first place at the Royal show judging contest November 17 in Kansas City, Mo. Rankin's team scored 2,318 points out of a possible 2,500. In the individual scoring, he ranked fifth among all the competitors from agricultural schools and colleges all over the United States.

George Taubeneck '30, was awarded the Sigma Delta Chi medal for making the highest scholastic average among the freshman students in journalism. He is president of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary scholastic fraternity, and is also a sophomore sport writer on the Daily Illini.

John Olwin '29, is working hard as junior interscholastic manager and if social engagements don't interfere too much, he should land his senior job in May.

Mike Denekas and Kleck Leuttick, two freshman pledges, are out this year trying to do something or nothing in the cross country division.

Bob Tull '28, is trying to live up to his distinction as being this year's contribution to Tau Beta Pi.

Wendell Cannon '28, is playing in the military band this year and is president of Sigma Delta Sigma. Tarsan Wiley '30, and Max Hull '30, are also playing in the band this year.

Fred Morris is assistant director at Wesley Foundation and is director of the Wesley chorus.

Roy Baird '29, is associate editor of this year's Illio, the University yearbook, and is vice-president of Pi Delta Epsilon.

Jack Schaefer '29, is junior news editor on the Daily Illini. Willis Helfrick '30, is a sophomore football manager and is working for his junior managership.

Horace Baker '29, is president of the Congregational Students' Association and is also serving as circulation manager of The Enterpriser, the College of Commerce publication.

New Basket Ball Suits—

Gamma placed second in the intra-mural baseball competition this year and was beaten out of first place by Theta Chi. Games were won from Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Sigma Pi, Delta Sigma Tau, Beta Kappa and Sigma Chi.

With the baseball season out of the way, the house will now turn its attention to basket ball with good possibilities for winning another division championship in this sport. Most of last year's basket ball material is back and should cop another cup. Elliff, Ubben, Wiley, Felts, Opperman are all back this year. The house recently purchased new basket ball suits for the team at a cost of $30.

The first informal house dance for Gamma men was held

October 15 in the chapter house in honor of the new pledges. The house was decorated in green and white and music was furnished by La Vernway's orchestra of Champaign.

This year the house has adopted the policy of having an honorary member over for Sunday dinner at least one each week. All the honorary members and their wives were present at the tea given in their honor Sunday afternoon, November 6, in the chapter house.

The following were present: Prof. F. R. Watson and Mrs. Watson; Rev. James C. Baker and Mrs. Baker; Henry E. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson; Prof. G. H. Dungan and Mrs. Dungan; Prof. C. C. Wiley and Mrs. Wiley and Prof. Lloyd Morey and Mrs. Morey. Dean Babcock was unable to be present because of illness.

Two men pledged during the second semester last year have been initiated. They are Wendell Cannon of Tower Hill and Harold (Bud) Haworth of St. Joseph.

Formal Set in April—

The house has decided to have only three house dances this year, the next of which will probably be February 25 or thereabouts. The spring formal is scheduled in April.

During the summer the Gamma house was repainted and repapered downstairs, and new draperies were placed on the downstairs windows. The only improvement contemplated for the coming few months is the installation of a rest room on the first floor for guests. Minor improvements will be made throughout the year. All in all, the house has been in better condition this year than ever before.

Homecoming this year was a success for Gamma in many ways. The Senior class won the first prize in group competition for presenting the best Senior Hobo stunt and consequently were given a large cup. The house entered the Stunt Show competition and also received first place and a large cup. The stunt featured Freddie Morris and his playmates consisting of four versatile singers, F. H. Morris '30, S. M. Stone '30, R. H. Tull '28, and George Potts '28, Kappa Tau Beta. About twelve men were down from Zeta Chapter to see the football game between Michigan and Illinois.

Thirty Alumni "Back"—

The following alumni were entertained over the Homecoming week-end:

F. A. Gabrielson '23, T. R. Routh '23, Howard Engelrecht '24, N. F. Fuller '27, W. T. Preston '25, Morris Kahlert ex '29, all of Chicago; G. W. Osbeck '25 and J. E. Elliff '25, both of Chicago Heights; W. C. Yackel '25, Kenilworth; R. R. Tombaugh '26, Odell; Arthur Browne '22, Chenoa; T. G. Hull '25, Maroa; J. H. Bandy '26, Evanston; J. H. Kahlert '26, Carlyle; K. H. Myers '22, Columbus, Ohio; C. H. Kramer '20, River Forest; H. N. Myers '21, Albion; L. W. Winn, Kankakee; G. W. Wallace '25, Chicago; C. W. Haworth, Melvin; W. E. Gilmore '23, Robert Matlock '24, L. F. Bandy '20, H. E. Wessman '24, W. J. Wessman '22, Paul Kent '20, H. E. Schlensz '27, H. E. Tascher '25, R. G. Browne '22, David V. Felts '24, all of Champaign.

The annual alumni breakfast featured this year's homecoming again this year with a majority of the alumni present. The breakfast was held Sunday morning, October 30. Talks were made by President Dykema, Dean Kendric C. Babcock, K. H. Myers '22, R. R. Tombaugh '26, V. L. Heath '28, and G. F. Taubeneck '30.

L. F. Bandy '20, is the proud father of a new daughter. The little miss was born October 13 and is making mother and father toe the mark already.

W. R. Tascher '24, is now studying in the University of Missouri at Columbia, having transferred from the University of Illinois to Missouri. He is working toward a Ph. D.

H. E. Wessman '24, and H. E. Schlensz '27 are teaching and taking work in the College of Engineering this year. Dave Felts '24, is assisting Mike Tobin in the Athletic publicity department.

DELTA CHAPTER

FRANK K. TIFFANY '28, Chapter Editor

Scholarship at Delta—

For the ninth successive year, was of sufficient quality to place her at the top of the list of Hill social organizations, with an average of 4.78. Beta Theta Pi, second ranking fraternity, averaged 4.66. Alpha Omicron Pi, the highest ranking social sorority, gave us a merry chase, but ended the year with a lower average than ours—4.76.

This was the second consecutive year that Delta had led both fraternities and sororities in the race for grade honors at the University of Kansas. Last year's average shows a considerable drop from that of the previous year, but the improvement of the second semester, immediately following the bad drop of the first, brought a rise that did our hearts good.

Only two Delta men are on the Dean's honor roll this year, however. Sidney Edwards '29, appears for his second consecutive year. Calvin Evans '28, is listed for his third year straight, and is also a recent initiate of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary and professional educational fraternity.

Religious Activities—

Are more than up to par. Evening watch is held twice weekly, and each man living in the house is being held responsible for conducting a service when called upon by the Chaplain.

As usual, the Y. M. C. A. finds itself fairly overrun by Delta workers. Frank Klingberg, last year's secretary, is conducting the Quest Groups, and Frank Tiffany is publicity manager. Both are members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet.

In the recent "Y" finance drive, Delta was well represented by Clarence Laughlin, major; Frank Klingberg, William George and Frank Tiffany, captains; Dick McGuire, Vernon Kauffman, Reese Potter, Harold Bullock, Phil Powers, Sidney Edwards, Kenneth Miller, D. Homer Davis, Cecil Engle and Clarence Francisco, solicitors. The "clean-up" drive now being planned will no doubt be well supported by Delta workers.

Ed Allen and Eugene McFarland are the two Delta men having ministerial charges this fall. Cleo Wilcox is president of the B. Y. P. U. Sidney Edwards and Frank Tiffany are treasurers for the Student Council of the Christian Church and the University Christian Science Society, respectively. Dock McGuire is vice-president of the Presbyterian Student Union. Bill George is secretary of Westminster Forum and chaplain of Athenian, Presbyterian fraternity. Wayne Bibb is corresponding secretary of the Presbyterian Forum. Other members are actively engaged as chairmen of the various student auxiliaries to Lawrence churches.

Delta has a goodly quota of Sunday School teachers, with Clarence Francisco and Harold Bullock at the Christian Church, and Phil Powers and Reese Potter at Haskell Institute. The Sunday School classes at the Indian school are conducted under the supervision of the University Y. M. C. A.

Delta's Athletic Record—

Last year was fairly impressive, but not enough so to suit us. For the second successive year the singles cup in intramural horseshoes has been brought to Delta's mantle, due to the noble efforts of "Wes" Roberds. Frank Klingberg, who turned the trick the year before, was one of three semi-finalists in singles.

Wes and Frank were going strong in the doubles tournament, too, but eliminated themselves by failing to turn in the score of one of their series of victories.

Track prospects seem better than ever this year. Last spring Delta lost first place only through inability to add enough points for participation in the meet. Her points won in actual competition amounted to more than those won by any other fraternity competing.

Our brightest prospect seems to be in swimming. Bill George, who won 8 points single-handed in last year's intramural meet, will lead us, and new material is promising. Phil Powers comes to us from St. Joe, Missouri, with a good record as swimming instructor at the Y. M. C. A. Vernon Kauffman, who is a senior member of the Red Cross Life Savings Corps, should show some speed, and Ray Brady and Lloyd Joyce, two men from Sunny California, are boys who have developed good-sized fins.

Delta has a good start in playground baseball, with two victories and no defeats—a perfect percentage to date. Both of the victories were by good margins.

We hope to avenge ourselves this year in basketball. Last year we did not compete, for our entries were made too late for inclusion in the intramural schedule.

Three K-men came from Delta last year—Stan Engle and Ray Kanehl, in track, and Henry "Hank" Shenk in football. Hank is back at right end on the Varsity this fall, and has already cinched his '27 letter.

Social Plans at Delta—

Are centered at present on the super-production for the entertainment of delegates to the National Conclave to be held in Lawrence December 28, 29 and 30. Our plans call for an informal dance on the last night of the sessions—the largest function of this kind ever planned by Delta.

The social schedule for this year includes a hike and two parties each semester. The annual fall hike, set for October 1, was called on account of rain—one of the basic elements in Kansas weather for eleven months past. The Halloween party was held October 29, and witches and goblins ruled Delta house, holding full sway, together with perfect syncope.

One branch of social activity has gotten entirely out of Delta's hands—that department is devoted to the College Engagement. No sooner had Brook Haines '27, escaped from the protection of the chapter house last spring than he went out of the jewelry business and began to devote himself entirely to politics as private secretary to Governor Paulen of Kansas.

Since Brother Haines' rash action, placing of pins has become a major sport, and as a result the following men are wearing blank vests: Clarence Laughlin '28; William George '29; Calvin Evans '28, and J. Marshall McWilliams '28.

May We Introduce to You—

Ten bright faces in Delta circle, all wearing the blue and gold diamond for us? They are Lloyd Joyce '31, Oakland, Calif.; Harold Bullock '29, Independence, Kans.; Reese Potter '29, James Taylor '29, and Phil Powers, '29, all from St. Joseph, Mo.; Cecil Engle '31, Chapman, Kans.; Ralph Bunn '31, Lawrence; Lloyd Smith '30, Lawrence; Kenneth Miller '30, Kansas City, Mo., and Howard Anderson '31, Ponca City, Okla.

This ten-tet forms a team that literally eats up pledge work, and each is taking an active part in the religious, athletic, social and scholastic work of Delta. Present plans call for a "pledge" party next spring, to be sponsored by these men, although they will be actives at that time.

Mother Topping—

Is with us again this year, and Delta should progress well under her apt guidance. A good business head, keen wit, and ability to understand "the boys" are seldom found together in such a measure as in Mother Topping.

We should not leave out mention of the entertaining visit of Dick Hansen '26, who returned last spring from China with a trunkful of gadgets and a brainful of ideas about Chinese customs and China's future. Dick taught in China until it got too hot even for foreign "devils," and then retired the good old U. S. A. After teaching the summer school men of Delta and the citizens of northeastern Kansas how to be good Chinese, and how to eat chop-suey with chop-sticks, Dick left for New York City, where he is now studying in the Union Theological Seminary.

Ellis Starrett, one of the original founders of old Ochino, from which Delta grew, dropped in during the convention of high school editors and teachers of journalism in Kansas schools, which was held in Lawrence October 21 and 22. His visit took us back to those days when the local group, though young, determinedly set out to introduce new standards on the Hill for social fraternity life.

Paul Hansen '28, is president of the School of Fine Arts. It is rumored that he is one of the most popular members of that school, and members of Delta know that his dating activities are marvelous—especially just before each Delta social function.

Lou Bunte of Gamma, and his mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Bunte of St. Louis, Mo., dropped in on the early birds at Delta while they were cleaning up the house in preparation for rush week activities. We had a good visit with Lou, and hope that Alpha Kappa Lambda men in all chapters will consider this as a standing invitation to drop in on us when in the vicinity of Lawrence.

Cleo Wilcox, our versatile xylophonist, has added a political instrument to his repertoire, and is playing upon the Men's Student Council of the University. His sex, we are certain, makes it impossible for him to miss-represent the School of Education on that solemn tribunal for freshman discipline. Shuckers at Johns Hopkins—

Delta now has two men on the Council. Clarence Laughlin, our amiable Engineer, was elected to membership last spring in the annual popularity contest. He admits willingly that he comes from the Engineering School—the only one "that has kept completely out of student politics".

Carrol Shukers '27, celebrated the receipt of his degree last spring by taking unto himself a wife. Carrol and Mrs. Shukers, who was formerly Miss Leola Harshfield, of Lawrence, a K. U. girl, are now at home in Baltimore, Maryland. Carrol holds a scholarship from the United States Bureau of Fisheries in John Hopkins University and is studying in the School of Public Hygiene.

Art Weber holds a teaching fellowship in chemistry at the University of Wisconsin and writes that he enjoys his many contacts with the men of Epsilon. With intersectional football games between Kansas and Wisconsin promising to become a habit, Delta hopes that her lines of contact with Epsilon will increase rapidly.

J. Marshall McWilliams is editor-in-chief of The Cosmopolitan Student, national organ of Cosmopolitan Club fraternity. Clarence Francisco recently pledged the local chapter of Cosmopolitan Club.

Bill George is assistant editor of the Kansas Engineer. Clarence Laughlin is a member of the control board for the same publication.

Bob Reynolds is strumming a really wicked banjo for Sid Reynolds dance orchestra, which plays regularly for the various organization and Varsity dances. The band also broadcasts regularly from radio station WREN.

Delta has five men on the University band this year. Frank Klingberg plays a cornet, Cleo Wilcox the clarinet, Gene McFarland the baritone; Ralph Bunn an alto and Ed Allen the piccolo.

Warren Pearson, Delta '20, passed from this world April 19 at Pueblo, Colorado. No fitter message can be given here than that of his old schoolmate and brother in Alpha Kappa Lambda, Algo D. Henderson: "You fellows who did not know Warren do not realize the loss the world has suffered. I wish there were something we could do to perpetuate that sunny spirit of his." He is the first Delta man to join Omega chapter.

Pledge brother James Taylor is now a member of the Mathematics Club.

Cleo Wilcox is the second Delta man to become a member of this year's men's student council. Cleo represents the School of Education.

Howard Anderson, our newest pledge hails from Ponca City, Oklahoma, and is a freshman.

One defeat in three games played mars Delta's intramural record in playground ball. The victors, incidentally, were cup winners last year.

EPSILON CHAPTER

WARREN C. PRICE '28, Chapter Editor

Sextet of Initiates—

Five new active members and one honorary member, all examples of the excellent type whom Alpha Kappa Lambda is seeking, were initiated into membership by Epsilon on Sunday, October 23.

Arthur Clifford Anderson, a salesman who can sell anything, anywhere, at anytime, entered the AKL fold with quite a record behind him as an undergraduate. Art hails from Peshigo, a little town somewhere up in the wilds of Marinette county, but coming from a little town did not hurt his chances of making things go well for him at Wisconsin.

During his first three years at school (he's a senior now) he only managed to make Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce; Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce; advisor in Phi Eta Sigma, honorary freshman fraternity, and the Commerce club. And now he has added Alpha Kappa Lambda to the list.

At the recent fall elections, Art was elected treasurer of the senior class by default, probably since no one deemed it wise to run against him. When questioned about the new political job, however, he has not much to say, probably because he isn't subject to taking financial jobs seriously.

Two from Milwaukee—

Roy A. Belter comes from Milwaukee, a factor which most of the non-Milwaukeeans usually claim one has to live down, but Roy isn't bothered a great deal. He is a second semester junior and is extremely active in work at the Y. M. C. A., where he is manager of the confectionery stand. He spends upwards of 40 hours a week in work there, making it necessary for him to carry a reduced academic schedule. Since his initiation, Roy has become one of the greatest assets the house has in the way of finding prospective members. With his work at the "Y" he becomes acquainted with numerous students, many of whom will form the basis of further good Alpha Kappa Lambda material.

James E. Dow, another up and coming Milwaukeean, is a sophomore in engineering. Jimmy comes into AKL with an every ready smile that will break anyone's scowl, and brings with him a disposition which has added much to the happiness and general good feeling of the chapter. As yet Jim has not had time to get into the general fling of university outside work, but his good start indicates that he will mean a great deal to the fellows at the house during the coming two years.

Journalism Prof New Honorary—

Ray L. Ellis is a product of Omro, a little village of Winnebago county about ten miles west of Oshkosh. He is a senior in the College of Letters and Science, and is majoring in biology. Ray is another of the Epsilon boys who is doing considerable work to earn his way through school. At the present time he is working at the university library about 12 to 15 hours a week. In addition he is furthering Epsilon's interest in outside activities as a member of the band, in which he has taken part in the last two years.

John W. Rogers, of course, is famous as the brother of Carl and Walt, two of his predecessors in the ranks of Alpha Kappa Lambda. John is a sophomore in engineering and is active as a worker on the staff of the Wisconsin Engineer. In the short time he has been an active member, he has already been filled with the spirit of the fraternity, a thing which speaks well for him later on. Now with both John and Walt around the house, the boys are never in need of "ready wit" at the dinner table. What one cannot supply the other does, and the combination works like a charm.

Kenneth E. Olson, our new honorary member, is assistant professor in the School of Journalism. Prof. Olson is one of the most popular instructors in the department, and as the leader of the course in "Newspaper Editing and Type Setting" has developed one of the most interesting subjects in journalism on the hill. With Prof. Olson as an addition to Epsilon's honorary list, the fraternity now has probably as many if not more faculty members than any other group at Wisconsin.

Prof. Olson graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1920 and has engaged actively in newspaper work since. He was formerly managing editor of the Capital Times, a local newspaper, but left to join the staff of the Milwaukee Journal, on which paper he held the positions of State Editor, City Editor and Sunday Editor.

He served in the War and attended the University of Bordeaux afterwards. In 1926 he accepted a position on the teaching staff of the School of Journalism. He is a brother-in-law of Brother Edward Nusbaum.

First in Scholarship—

The inter-fraternity traveling scholarship cup, with four AKL engravings upon it, once more rests on the mantel piece in the living room of Epsilon after an absence of a year.

The entire chapter is happy that we have the cup again, and we surely intend to keep it for a while now.

The industrious and brilliant Ervin Weinke, new scholarship committee chairman, refused to be quoted in the question of punitive measures for those who fall below the general average. He declared that the long arm of the law would get him if he allowed his utterances to get into the mails.

Pledges Lead Campus—

Our pledges led all other fraternity pledges in scholarship last semester with an average of more than two-point. With such a fine crop of pledges ready to be initiated soon things look pretty good for continued possession of the scholarship cup.

Sunday Morning Devotionals—

Parson Rasche, Bob Garlock and Erv Weinke are acting on the Religious Activities committee for this semester. Here in what the parson has to say.

"The committee plans to have a chapel meeting each Sunday morning after breakfast. The boys in the house will take charge of the music, scripture reading and prayer, and a minister or a University professor will speak to us and lead us in a discussion on some topic of religious significance.

"Already two Sunday morning meetings have been held. Rev. Donald Webster, Director of Student Work for the Congregational church, spoke to us at the first meeting, and Rev. Edward Munson, of the Swedish Lutheran church was our speaker at the second meeting.

"Most of the boys have found their places for service in the activities of their respective churches in Madison. Three members of the Uni-Service Committee, which plans for the University Religious Convocations, are AKL boys."

Win Three Games—

After winning three games in a row the touch football team hit a snag when they tangled with the Phi Sigma Kappa outfit and lost, 14 to 0.

Delta Pi Epsilon, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Phi Delta Theta fell before the powerful attack of AKL. Then came the defeat and we were out of the running.

The following men played on the team: Walt Rogers, John Rogers, Don Newton, Ed. Baillie, Poly Baker, Fred Hook, Walt Fiedler, Jimmy Dow, Ray Ellis, Ad. Hoobel, John Wolever, George Schneeberger and Ed. Harget.

Baldy Dymond, who is a mean boy in the alleys, is going to lead his bowling team in a fray with the tough Delta Chi team soon.

Entertains Zeta Guests—

More than 40 couples, including five men from Zeta chapter at Michigan, attended the first social event of the season at Epsilon. The Fort Atkinson Serenaders were hot that night and the party was voted one of the most enjoyable in years. Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard were the chaperons. Mr. Hibbard, who is the University "Y" secretary, is one of the strongest AKL boosters on the campus.

Lounge Lizards? Guess Not!

What are fellows at Epsilon doing on the campus? The only answer is—plenty, and to go into detail would consume more space than any reader of THE LOGOS would care to see devoted to one chapter. Consequently, all that we can do at the present time is to give a brief account of what each one is doing and let it go at that.

William T. Schnathorst, our president, is still continuing his work on the Gleen Club and as a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, honorary musical fraternity. Bill is also carrying about 40 hours of outside work a week, selling annuals for the Brock Engraving company.

John F. Wolever is active on the Luther Memorial student cabinet and as a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Dave J. Roberts is president of the Freshman Glee club and a member of the Varsity Glee club. He is also a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia. Dave, a first year medic student, seems to have acquired the name of 'Doc' on the campus, but has not yet been called by that very much at the house.

Jack Dymond is our present house manager. He is a senior in the Commercial School and a member of Alpha Kappa Psi.

Mel Thomson is back at the house again doing graduate work in economics. Mel is also an assistant in the economics department.

Three Journalists—

George H. Seefeld has become accompanist of the Varsity Glee club during his sophomore year. He is also a member of Phi Eta Sigma, honorary freshman scholastic fraternity.

John Thompson is a senior artillery officer in the R. O. T. C.

Evan Roberts has pledged Alpha Kappa Psi and is working on the night staff of the Daily Cardinal.

Walt Fiedler is working part of his way through school by waiting tables at a Madison restaurant. In addition, Walt is a member of the R. O. T. C. corps.

Bob Garlock was recently initiated into Eta Kappa Nu, honorary electrical engineering fraternity. He is an officer of the Presbyterian students association.

Warren Price is a desk editor on the staff of the Daily Cardinal, and a pledge of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. He was chairman of the foreign publicity committee for the 1927 Homecoming.

Bob Rasche, our chaplain, has been doing active preaching each week at Stoughton, Wis. Bob is studying for ministry in the Congregational church. He is a member of Alpha Kappa Delta, honorary sociological fraternity, and is taking part in the Wisconsin "Blue Shield," a country life club.

Eddie Nusbaum is a member of the University band and orchestra.

Another Y. M. C. A. President—

Eddie Baillie, athletic manager, is a member of the Varsity swimming team. Last year Ed won his "W" in swimming. He is especially proficient in the back stroke.

Chuck Pence is working on the Varsity track squad. He throws the discus.

Walt Rogers is a member of the Varsity Glee club this year, and of the University Y. M. C. A. cabinet. He is also one of the three Alpha Kappa Lambda men who are working on the University service committee which arranges for the monthly All-university religious convocations.

Fred Hook is active in Luther Memorial church work. Erv Weinke seems destined to become a politician, for this fall he has entered the Law school. He is also a member of the Young Men's Progressive association, and is an ardent follower of the ideals of Robert Marion La Follette.

Ad Hoebel is President of the University Y. M. C. A. Ad is the third AKL in the past four years to hold this position on the campus.

Trewartha, Fowlkes Back—

Glenn Trewartha, charter member of Epsilon, and an Associate Professor in the Geology department, has returned from a year's research work in the Orient. He may now be reached at the University Club.

Ben Folsom is now in the Harvard Medical school.

Clif Franscen is still at the University Medical school.

Prof. Fowlkes is back at the University.

Lyle Gage is finishing up at Pennsylvania in medicine.

Elliot Guild is still located at Berkeley.

Carl Casper is claim adjuster located at Wausau.

Orme Kahlenberg has a fellowship at Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J. He claims he has to keep the girls away with a club. He says he is thinking of marriage constantly.

Fred Moreau is an instructor in law at the University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho.

Poly Baker is back taking grad work at the university and living at the house.

Howard Beaver was recently married. He is a financial organizer in Chicago.

Joe Blomgren is principal of the high school at Elcho, Wis.

Larry Bois is an intern at the New Asbury hospital at Minneapolis, Minn.

Dick Church is teaching at Janesville High School.

Les Cleveland is working in Los Angeles.

ZETA CHAPTER

JAMES H. LAROWE '28, Chapter Editor

New Porch Built—

Every day in every way Zeta's Chapter house is getting better and better. A new front porch was built this fall and painted by the men in the house. One week some of the more ambitious men, under the direction of Baragar, got busy and laid a concrete floor and built a new room in the basement for the cook. House Manager Kenneth Stuart has tried to keep a crew busy painting, and several of the fellows have redecorated their own rooms. We also traded in our old music box for a new Brunswick.

National President Lewis Reimann has given up his position as Student Secretary for Presbyterian students and now is director of a boy's camp. Lewis reports a successful summer at his Camp Charleyvoix, where he was assisted by several AKL men. Alder was director of handicraft, Wheeler was director of aquatics, Sampson was director of arts and dramatics, Dahlberg was director of activities Oldham was director of swimming and Barlock was director of athletics.

Busy in Church Work—

Zeta looks forward to one of her best years in athletics. We were tied for division championship in the intra-fraternity speedball tournament, but lost in the play-off. We also have entered a strong team in the cross country run.

We have some good athletic material among our pledges. Spencer is a track man and with his partner took the All-

Campus tennis doubles and plays against that partner in the singles finals soon. Oldham is out for varsity track and basket ball.

Many of Zeta's men are doing active work in the Presbyterian Church. Barlock and Sampson have charge of a student supported Sunday School for poor children in the Hoover district, and Sampson has charge of religious dramatics. Oldham has charge of the C. E. meetings and Kearns manages the Noon-day Bible class, which is lead by Prof. McClusky. Becker directs the C. E. orchestra.

Potential Profs Galore—

We have an assisting crowd this year. Baragar is a teaching assistant, and Fisher is an instructor in the physics department. Chalk is student assistant in automotive engineering, Stewart and J. LaRowe are assistants in the College of Architecture. Wertman assists in the Library, while Freshwaters is an instructor in the Dental College. Frances Vreeland is now teaching in the sociology department at the University.

Eagles and Becker are representing the house in the Varsity Band, playing clarinet and flute, respectively.

Among those back for the games were brothers: Black, Bucknell, Allen, Barton, Dasef, Dickenson, Hicks, Holland, Mellon, Newell, Strickler, Homer Strong, Norman Strong, Knapp, Jerry Smith, Kaiser, Anderson, Reninger, Whaley, Wheeler, Summers and Sullivan.

Alumni Scattering—

Roy Adams is now in Florida, where he is assistant sales manager of the Florida Fruit Products Co. at Eagle Lake.

Norman Smith is with the United States Alabaster Co. at Alabaster, Mich.

Bill Reninger is assistant professor of rhetoric at the State Normal College at Ypsilanti.

Harold Anderson is going through an instruction period with the Pontiac-Oakland Motor Co. at Detroit.

as he said, that it would be supplying something that he was missing . . . In suppling that missing element—Christian fellowship—Zeta has profited richly. As chairman of the Pledge Committee, as chapter vice-president, as a man, a real fellow among fellows, Russ Fisher has proved himself in the brief two years he has been affiliated, an invaluable asset to the fraternity.

Nor is AKL his only sweetheart. Less than a year ago he was one of the five men who brought boxes of cigars with them to the table one night. The rumor was soon substantiated that once more local co-education had received a setback; the lady of destiny lived in Chicago.

So, the Christmas season of 1927 will see him along just before New Year's at Lawrence, Kan., as the senior representative of Zeta at the Conclave—that is, of course, if he isn't detained at the half-way mark—at the Windy City around the Lake.

The Story of Eta

National Endowment Fund
Membership Passes 350

It was stated on the inside cover of THE LOGOS for last June that the National Endowment Fund was "growing steadily, but too slowly—" There followed an invitation to all AKLs to consider themselves agents for the national organization in the effort to bring all alumni into the magazine-receiving class. The Ninth list contained twenty-three names and brought the total number of subscribers to 281. National Treasurer Walt Wessman has released the Tenth List and the figure is now 351. And the 351st came from the other side of the world!

Everett D. Gunn, Delta '22, sent it in from Galata, Constantinople, Turkey, where he is working with the Near East Relief. The editor's private opinion is that Brother Gunn has set an example for a good many AKL alumni in the United States who are still non-members, and hence don't get THE LOGOS, and another hence—don't know what their fraternity and their brothers in it are doing.

The easy payment plan isn't hard. You'll never miss the installments. If you aren't a subscriber, think it over for a few days.
