golden anniversary feature: THE NEW NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

Alpha Kappa Lambda can now take pride in its own modest, but beautiful national headquarters. Not a shrine, nor a temple, nor a memorial park, it is a functional and very attractive redwood and glass building which houses the National Office (including the chapter service and publications departments), conference facilities, and the Fraternity's records and archives. The National Headquarters Building rests on a neatly landscaped site at the base of the Rocky Mountains in Fort Collins, Colorado. Fort Collins is located on U. S. Highway 287 about 60 miles north of Denver and 45 miles south of Cheyenne, Wyoming. It is a city of approximately 28,000 population and the home of Colorado State University.

THE LOGOS

Executive Secretary Lou Bacon begins his 15th year of service in his new office in the National Headquarters Building.

From Household To Headquarters

As far back as the 1930's some brothers had the hope that one day the Fraternity would have a full time executive secretary to provide chapters with visitation and council, to create some means of effective communication within the Fraternity

(results of alumni chapter elections were sometimes reported five years after they occurred), and to carry on an efficient administration of the business of Alpha Kappa Lambda.

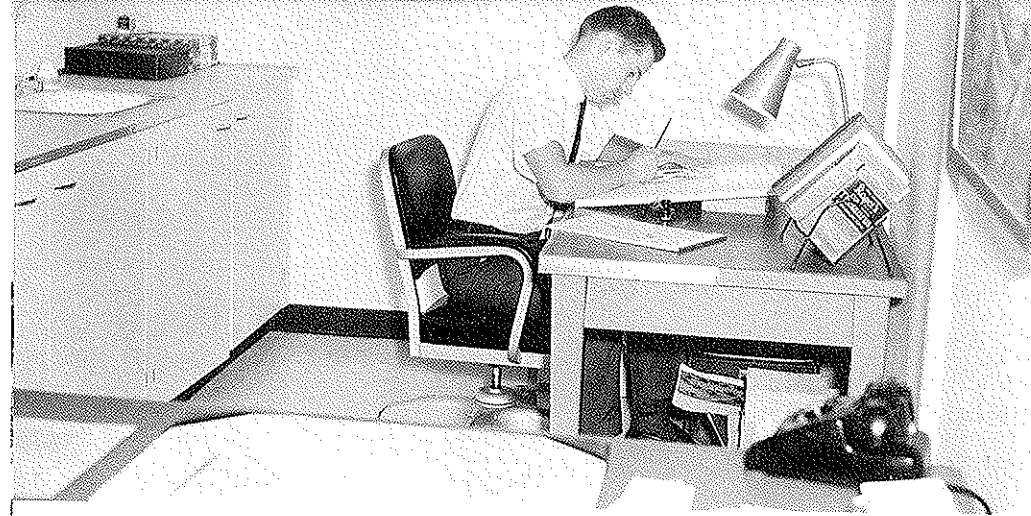

Lewis Bacon was hired for the job in 1949. He set up shop in his home in Emporia, Kansas, and AKL had its first "national office". Office equipment consisted initially of an elderly portable typewriter, a few files, and an old geletin hectograph which ground out crude copies of literature for the chapters. Not an imposing host of facilities. Yet, this was probably the most significant step AKL had taken since its inception.

Before long the secretary moved into another house in Emporia, and the basement was immediately appropriated to accommodate the rapidly expanding collection of records and materials. New equipment began to appear, also. The National Executive Council approved the purchase of a reconditioned typewriter, more files, and a used desk and chair for the secretary's spare bedroom-office. Addressograph equipment was soon added along with a duplicator, and of course, more files.

The impact of a fulltime office was felt in all areas of the Fraternity. AKL gained stability, better organization, more efficient general administration, better informed chapters and members, both undergraduate and alumni. And we grew. Chapters were added at a rate, which when compared with the past, was almost breathtaking. AKL was growing up, and the complexities and scope of National Office operations continually mounted.

In 1956, with the resources of his basement and converted bedroom nearly exhausted, the secretary moved the National Office into a suite on the second floor of the Mutual Building in Emporia where it remained until June 1, 1963. During the little better than a dozen years that the National Office was located in Emporia AKL almost tripled in number of chapters; increased total membership from about 2500 to nearly 6000; gained senior membership in the National Interfraternity Conference; and expanded its national staff, facilities, and services. It made remarkable increases in financial stability and resources; greatly improved chapter and national programs; and made signal progress in chapter housing.

The new headquarters now provide more adequate facilities for the National Office and staff and will allow the continued improvement of services and administration. The Alpha Kappa Lambda National Headquarters Building is a milestone in our Fraternity's progress and should mark the beginning of another great period of growth and development. □

a new chapter with a long history

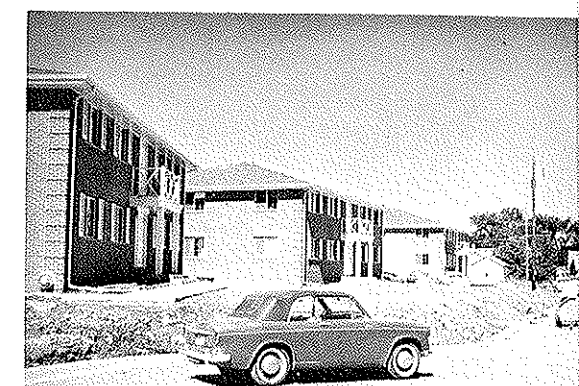

Alpha Epsilon is the name of the chapter which was installed at Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh, on March 9, 1963. It has 47 charter members, a new house, and a 64 year history as a fraternal organization.

Alpha Epsilon is the result of the interesting and highly successful fusion of several different elements. One of these was a local fraternity called Philakean. Philakean Fraternity was founded at Oshkosh in 1899, originally as a debating society. It grew up with the college, so to speak, and was the oldest local fraternity on the Wisconsin State College campus before its merger with Alpha Kappa Lambda.

Element number two was Richard Lindberg, a Logos Foundation Scholarship winner, who transferred to Oshkosh from Washington State last fall to start work on a colony.

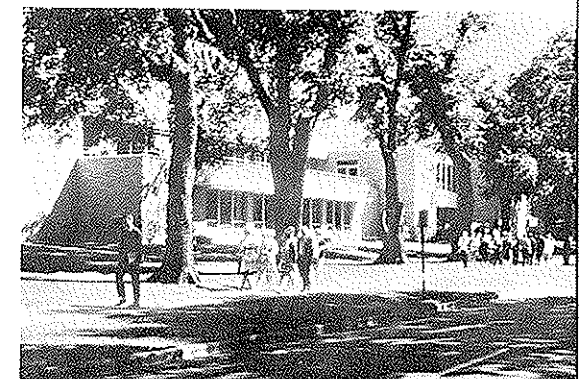

Next was a group of independent students who, early in the fall, became interested in starting a group to become a chapter of AKL. The fourth element was a brand new fraternity house in the newly built fraternity court off campus which was made available for lease to an AKL colony.

In September, 1962, Philakean voted to petition Alpha Kappa Lambda for a charter. They began holding joint meetings with the new colony men. This combined organization soon elected new officers and chose to go under the name of AKL Club until their petition should be approved and colony status granted. A large part of the success of this group can be accounted for in the outstanding leadership that was provided by John Timm, colony president (former president of Philakean), and the chapter experience, Fraternity knowledge, and effort contributed by Rick Lindberg.

By second semester the colony had enough members available to occupy the new 32 man house on Titan Court. They took a lease on it and moved in. This decision helped stabilize the group, providing meeting and social facilities, plus common living, eating, and studying accommodations; and it made for better communications and organization. The colony did well during the year in a variety of campus and interfraternity activities, and had many members actively participating in organizations on and off campus.

NORTHWEST MISSOURI STATE: from challenge to charter

by Robert Johnson

Alpha Zeta Chapter at Northwest Missouri State College in Maryville, Missouri, was officially installed as a chapter of Alpha Kappa Lambda Fraternity on April 28, 1963, by Brother E. T. Burroughs, National President. The installation ceremony, which took place at the Roubidoux Hotel in St. Joseph, Missouri, capped four months of planning, organizing, rushing, pledging, working and studying which brought Alpha Zeta from a dream to reality.

The twenty-nine members were designated as charter members after they passed Executive Secretary Lou Bacon's pledge test and were initiated by members of Sigma Chapter from Central Missouri State at a restaurant in Savannah, Missouri. The members of Sigma also brought a flaming torch from Warrensburg to St. Joseph Olympic style. Sigma president Gren Foraker presented the torch to Ted Jamison, Alpha Zeta President.

Installation banquet was held at Roubidoux Hotel, St. Joseph Toastmaster Bob Johnson introduced the speakers and guests at the banquet including Lou Bacon, Executive Secretary; Leroy Crist, Alpha Zeta advisor and AKL alumnus of Kansas State Teachers; and President Burroughs who was the main speaker. Mr. Burroughs' challenging speech was well received, and his dialect stories were especially enjoyed.

Officers of Alpha Zeta present at the ceremony were Ted Jamison, president; Bob Chafin, first vice-president; Bob Johnson, second vice president; John Foley, secretary; Roger Halleck, corresponding secretary; Raymond Boone, treasurer; George Murdock, sergeant at arms; Bill Dankers, pledgemaster; Frank Dodge, chaplain; and Larry Anderson, parliamentarian.

Members of Sigma Chapter, including new initiates who were initiated with the Alpha Zeta men, were also present at the banquet as were parents and wives of Alpha Zeta members.

Alpha Zeta began organizing in January, 1963, after a visit from Sandy Farquhar, AKL National Field Representative. After recruiting the necessary 15 men to start an organization things began to happen right and left. First came approval from the Student Senate, then recognition as a colony by the IFC. The colony sponsored a candidate in the year-book queen contest, captured first place in the Ugly Man Carnival when their candidate doubled the number of votes of the runner-up, and successfully campaigned in the student body election. Finally, the initiation and installation ceremonies made us a part of Alpha Kappa Lambda Fraternity. And from Alpha Zeta Chapter—we're glad to be aboard. □

McNEESE STATE RECEIVES CHARTER

Alpha Eta Chapter First in Louisiana

An AKL Colony which was started a year ago at McNeese state College in Lake Charles, Louisiana was presented with its charter on May 4, 1963. Alpha Eta's is the 30th charter granted by Alpha Kappa Lambda, and it represents the Fraternity's 28th active collegiate chapter.

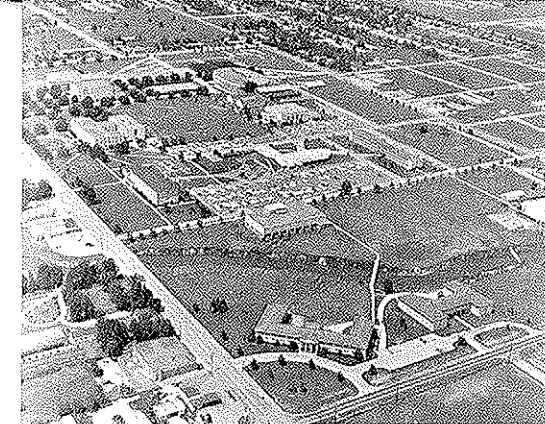

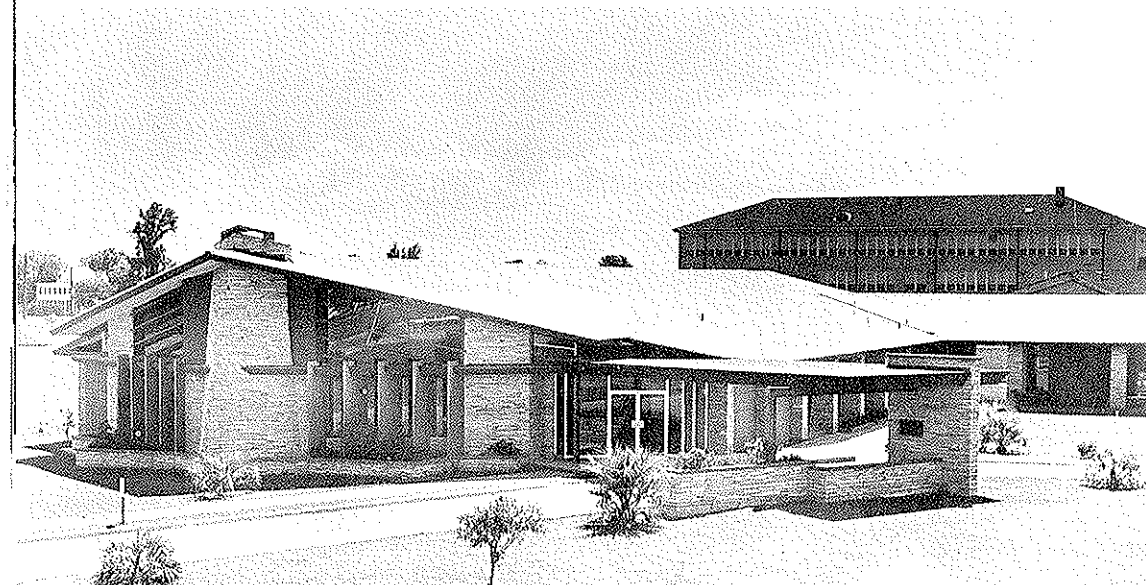

The task of establishing an AKL chapter at McNeese was conceived in April, 1962, when a group of students discussed the idea of starting a fraternal organization with Dr. John Richards, AKL alumnus of Kansas State Teachers College '55, who was a McNeese faculty member at that time. Two men from this group, Ed Watson and Scott Whener, attended the AKL National Conclave at Breezy Point, Minnesota in August, 1962, and became familiar with the Fraternity and the procedures for starting a colony. During the college year that followed a strong and enthusiastic colony developed. The group's petition was approved, and May 4, 1963, was designated as the installation date for Alpha Eta Chapter.

Installation activities began late Friday afternoon May 3, when all of the colony's initiation candidates took their final pledge test. On Friday evening colony members played host to members of Xi Chapter of Northeast Missouri State Teachers who drove to Lake Charles for the installation weekend. The Louisianians conducted tours of McNeese State and Lake Charles.

young college, founded in 1939 as a division of Louisiana State University. Its campus has a predominance of new buildings with more under construction. Enrollment is 3500 students, and many degrees are given in education. In addition to Alpha Kappa Lambda there are two other national fraternity chapters and one local in the McNeese fraternity system.

Lake Charles is a city of about 60,000 population with considerable industry, particularly chemicals. It is located in the southwestern corner of the state about 60 miles north of the Gulf of Mexico.

The members of Xi Chapter conducted initiation ceremonies Saturday morning initiating 15 charter members. In addition to these men Alpha Eta also has 15 charter pledges or a total chapter membership of 30.

After lunch the new initiates treated their brothers from Kirksville to an afternoon of water skiing on Lake Charles. All were safely recovered in time for the installation banquet held Saturday evening.

Guests at the banquet included Ellis Guillory, Dean of Men; the colony's advisors, Ray B. Knoohuizen, Assistant Professor of Accounting at McNeese State, and W. H. Droze, Assistant Professor in the college's History Department; and the visiting AKL members from Northeast Missouri State Teachers.

The principal speaker of the evening was Brother E. T. Burroughs, National President of Alpha Kappa Lambda, who flew from his home in Detroit to Lake Charles to make the official charter presentation. In addressing the assembled colony members, parents, friends, and guests he devoted the first part of his message to the history and tradition of Alpha Kappa Lambda and concluded by challenging the new initiates to build a great AKL chapter in the best traditions of the Fraternity. He stressed scholarship as the element of prime importance in the chapter program and the point of greatest individual concern. He also called for a devotion to the Fraternity's ideals as the basis of a sound chapter.

The colony became the 28th active collegiate chapter of Alpha Kappa Lambda when President Burroughs presented the charter to John Hutchinson who accepted on behalf of the members. The balance of the evening was given to celebration, conversation, and plan making for the coming fraternity year. □

LOGOS REPORT ► Scholarship 1961-62

Scholarship ratings of AKL chapters are based on an index figure which expresses the margin of a chapter's grade point average above or below the all men's average on that chapter's own campus. This index figure appears in the last column of the chart below after the columns showing the chapter grade point average, the number of fraternities on campus, and the chapter's scholastic rank among fraternities on that campus. These statistics were compiled through the use of information made available by NIC Scholarship Reporting. Alpha Kappa Lambda ranked 10th out of 58 NIC fraternities for 1961-62, and fourth among fraternities with 25 chapters or less. Sixty-five per cent of AKL chapters were above the all men's average.

THE OLDEST GRAD

The tall, gangling youth with the Kaiser Wilhelm mustache was a model of self-discipline at the University of Freiburg. Limited to a small monthly allowance of $21, he was never known to squander or borrow a pfennig. At night, nodding over his law books, he would take off his shoes and socks, immerse his feet in a tub of cold water to stay awake. He never fought a duel, but he was no square. He pledged a fraternity, acquired the "Biername" (drinking nickname) of "Toni", and at frothy functions would bang his stein on an oak table in unison with the rest of them. Later, in Cologne, he dazzled the frauleins at the local Pudelnass (Sopping Wet) Tennis Club. Among those who knew him, many were surprised when Konrad Adenauer (class of 1897) grew up to be a politician and eventually Chancellor of West Germany.

Last week Adenauer's college days became a topic of national discussion. Addressing a nostalgic reunion of alte Herren (old grads,) the Chancellor defended Germany's tradition of fraternities, which are widely accused of fostering authoritarianism. Though at 87 Adenauer has seen most if not all of his old fraternity classmates die, he is still a loyal member of Arminia* (motto: True! Free!).

Said der Alte: "When a student enters the university, he or she is neither a finished man nor a finished woman. One is never completely finished in life. A boy needs a special atmosphere. It is like a plant that grows up, or a young tree. It depends on how the air is, on the surroundings he is in, on the earth that gives him nourishment. I believe a Studentenkorporation (fraternity) can give a young student a great deal. I look back at my student time and can only say that the atmosphere which I found in the fraternities has affected me for my whole life. The student can only be raised by the fellowship of his peers." As for the burgeoning revival of fraternities since World War II (40% of West German students now belong), der Alte maintained that "after the terrible collapse at the end of the war, the rise of such a tradition is of very vital and great significance for all the German people."

After his speech, Adenauer took time to inspect the special offices in Bonn's Parliament Building that are being made ready for him to occupy after his oftpostponed but now promised retirement as Chancellor this fall. When he steps down, Adenauer is supposed to confine himself to being a parliamentary Deputy, national chairman of his Christian Democratic Union—and the oldest surviving member of Arminia.

WHY DEPARTMENTS IN THE NATIONAL OFFICE?

The National Office has become more diversified over the last few years. The scope and volume of its activities have increased as the Fraternity has grown and as new services and programs have been added to its responsibilities. AKL's rapid growth has expanded the resources and capabilities of the Fraternity as a national organization. Each succeeding National Conclave and meeting of the National Executive Council produces a new assortment of programs and projects for the improvement and progress of the Fraternity, nearly all of which depend on the National Office to be carried out. Moreover, the office itself is continually devising ways to improve its services and make all of its operations more effective and efficient. The upshot of all this has been the departmentalization of the National Office.

At the end of the 1961-62 college years and national staff was increased to three full-time men, including the Executive Secretary and two field representatives. During the following year it was decided by the NEC and staff that more effective work could be done in the basic areas of office operations by separate departments, each headed by a staff member as Department Secretary. The two departments that were created were the Department of Chapter Services and the Department of Publications. The Executive Secretary continues to serve as head administrator for all functions of the National Office under the direction of the NEC.

The jobs that the National Office does are many, and they must be done continually and simultaneously. The most important of these is maintaining top level service for the undergraduate chapters. The new Department of Chapter Services was organized to devote full effort and resources to service and assistance for the chapters. By having a distinct agency whose sole purpose and responsibility is to give careful attention to the needs and problems of chapters, the Fraternity can be assured of better chapter operations and greater success in performing a useful service for its members and the university. The department staff should grow as the Fraternity grows in order to maintain a high level of service and efficiency.

The growth in our membership and number of chapters has magnified the value of the printed word as a communications and information medium. Recognition of the growing need for more and better publications within our Fraternity was the cause for the establishment of the Department of Publications. Since its formation the department has produced a new, more comprehensive edition of the fraternity manual under the title, (THE TRUTH AND THE WORD;) created a bi-weekly informational newsletter (INSIDE AKL); and taken on the responsibility for the publication of the LOGOS. Several publications for the chapters have been produced, and many more are programmed for the future.

The department idea promises to be quite practical in increasing the general effectiveness of the National Office in serving Alpha Kappa Lambda. In the future its application may extend into other vital areas of the Fraternity's operations such as accounting and auditing. Projects that lie outside the defined responsibilities of a particular department or office, such as the addition of new chapters, are often handled by the joint efforts of the Secretaries.

Installation took place March 9. Final pledge tests were given Friday night, and initiation began at dawn on Saturday morning. An open house was held Saturday afternoon which was attended by many parents, Philakean alumni, and AKL's. Several members of Xi Chapter of Northeast Missouri State Teachers and Gamma Chapter of Illinois drove to Oshkosh for the installation weekend. In addition to Rick Lindberg Eta Chapter was represented by Jim Hudson who was attending the University of Chicago during the past year.

The installation banquet was held at the Legion on the Lake in Oshkosh. A welcome address was given by Dean of Men E. O. Thedinga. Wisconsin State College's President Guiles also expressed favorable sentiments on behalf of the administration towards the establishment of Alpha Kappa Lambda at Oshkosh.

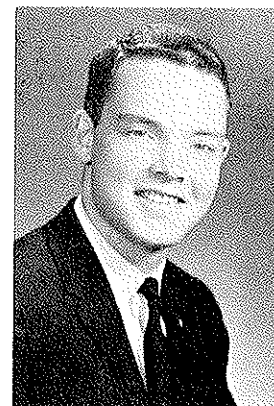

The main address was given by AKL National President E. T. Burroughs. He spoke to a large gathering of undergraduates, parents, alumni, faculty, and friends. After his well received talk Brother Burroughs presented the Alpha Epsilon Charter to John Timm, chapter president. The program closed with a musical performance by the members of Alpha Epsilon. Several members who had been Philakeans sang a number of Philakean songs dating from the 1920's to the present; then the entire chapter closed with a beautiful choral arrangement of "Hail Our Fraternity."

Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh, began as a state normal school in 1871, and became a state teachers college in 1925. In 1949 Oshkosh, along with the eight other Wisconsin State Colleges, was granted authority to establish a four year liberal arts curriculum. Since that time it has added pre-professional training in several fields. Enrollment is around 3600. □

CORRELATES FRATERNITIES AND GRADUATION

Dr. Paul P. Van Riper, Cornell University, recently called attention to a study made by the U. S. Office of Education titled "Retention and Withdrawal of College Students". He found this study to show that fraternities are performing exceptionally well academically in their holding power through graduation. He quoted from a few conclusions showing that (1) while only 33% of the men on campuses with no fraternities graduated, and (2) while only 47% of the men on campuses with fraternities but who did not join graduated (3) 52% of the men who joined local fraternities and 59% who joined national fraternities graduated.

The study appeared in Bulletin No. 1, 1958 Series, of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Dr. Van Riper is representative from the Fraternity Scholarship Association to the NIC. His findings appeared in NIC Scholarship Reporting, March 20, 1963.

A NEW LOOK

THE LOGOS has taken on a new appearance. It's a little bigger. There's more color in it. Its design and layout have been updated. And, as we hope you will notice as you receive succeeding issues, there will be an attempt to broaden the scope of its editorial content and add to its general interest, readability, and attractiveness.

Beginning with the present issue THE LOGOS is being printed by off-set press. It was formerly done on letterpress. We feel that the new method will give us greater flexibility in the use of artwork, photography, and color in the magazine.

For the first time in its history THE LOGOS is being prepared and published on a full-time professional basis in the newly created Department of Publications in the National Headquarters Building.

A definite editorial policy has been drafted. This should be of interest to you both as a reader of THE LOGOS and as a member of the Fraternity which it serves. THE LOGOS Editorial Policy is stated as follows:

It is the purpose of our magazine:

- To report on and keep our members generally informed about the events and affairs of Alpha Kappa Lambda and its undergraduate members and alumni.

- To offer analysis and editorial comment on various issues and events of Alpha Kappa Lambda and the fraternity and collegiate world.
- To provide a forum for the presentation and exchange of ideas and information of fraternity, academic, or cultural interest.
- To promote the best interests of Alpha Kappa Lambda.

New regular features will be added as interest warrants, such as a 'Letters to the Editor' page, frequent editorials on current issues in the fraternity world, and others.

We hope you will continue to find the same high quality of authorship and editorship that has been traditional in THE LOGOS along with some new interest and variety. Your comments and suggestions are welcomed.

RICHARD H. MURLEY, California '58, is in his fifth year of teaching sixth grade at Montecito School in Martinez, California. He lives at 109 Crystal, Taft, California.

THE LOGOS

AN EXEMPLARY ROAD TO COLLECTIVISM?

An editorial reprinted from Banta's Greek Exchange;

April, 1963

Following a talk made not long ago by Lewis Bacon, executive secretary of Alpha Kappa Lambda, before a meeting of national college fraternity administrators, general concern was expressed regarding the negative results of the increasingly complex rushing systems which the interfraternity council organizations at many universities and colleges have stumbled into developing. At the conclusion of Bacon's talk, a straw vote was taken which revealed that all fraternity leaders present believe that membership procurement will be happier for all fraternities and the membership candidates if most rushing restrictions are eliminated. All indicated they would not recommend deferred rushing or pledging systems as a substitute for the present complicated programs; deferment only makes more regulations necessary.

A case in point is discussed in the chapter publication of Triangle at Michigan, on which campus the IFC has adopted a new rush program which will hamper informal rush.

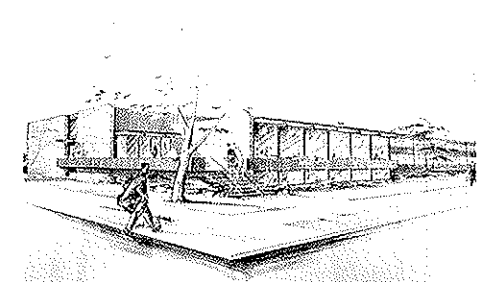

During the formal rush week, a fraternity is not permitted to pledge a man unless he has rushed at least seven other houses. The new rules also state that after formal rush, during informal rush, no fraternity is permitted to pledge a freshman unless he has rushed at least eight houses during formal rush. Since most of the eligible men are freshmen and few go through eight houses in formal rush without pledging, this latter rule greatly reduces the number of men eligible for informal rush.

SEPTEMBER, 1963

Now that the College Fraternity Secretaries Association has produced a concrete consistent, and prudent statement concerning practices with respect to hazing and initiation, why do they not also summarize what is sane, sensible workable, and enlightened with respect to deferred rushing, elaborate rush systems, and regulations? Many IFC's are actually searching for leadership in this area as they have never searched before, for without it the administration too often tends to make the man conform to some institutional groove which isn't the least bit good for his soul.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Since the writing of the above editorial the University of Michigan has dropped the new restrictive rush rules. Also, at the recent meeting of the College Fraternities Secretaries Association in Albuquerque a strong opinion on the part of the secretaries present was demonstrated against the over-regulation of rush, and steps will be taken to discourage it.)

IN THE NEXT LOGOS

The December, 1963 issue of THE LOGOS will include a pictorial survey of all of AKL's newest chapter housing.

The Logos Foundation Board is now located in the San Francisco Bay Area which is the home of the new board members recently elected by the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter. The Foundation was started by members of the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter in 1953, and until the election of the current board, it had remained in the Los Angeles vicinity. The board was elected to serve from July 1, 1963, to June 30, 1964. The Logos Foundation bylaws provide that the Fraternity's Executive Secretary be an ex-officio member of the board and that one of the regular board members be a representative of another alumni chapter. This member is yet to be named.

The board has met in San Francisco on September 14, 1963, to plan for an active and productive year for the Logos Foundation.

All gifts to the Logos Foundation are tax deductible. Every year the Foundation grants several scholarship to outstanding undergraduate members and makes an invaluable contribution to the Fraternity's growth and development.
